At public auction in the council chamber at city hall this morning, Abel R. Campbell, acting for the park department, sold at the highest premiums in history priority rights in the choice of lots along the midway at South common for July 4 next. Nathan Maguiness of Providence paid $66 for first pick of three lots after about ten minutes of spirited bidding which opened with a ten dollar offer and went by two and five dollar boosts to the price finally prevailing.

Second pick of three lots brought a premium of $21 while for third and fourth choice several persons paid $19 each. Fifth choice brought $16. The auction continued until the ten dollar limit was reached and bidding was desultory, at which time the lots were offered takers at the list price, $20.

THEIR FINAL TRIBUTE AT STATE INFIRMARY

Many Attend Funeral Service for James Gookin at Immaculate Conception

Furniture Stores Close During Funeral—Burial in St. Patrick's Cemetery

In the family lot in St. Patrick's cemetery, the remains of James Gookin, for 45 years one of the city's well known business men and president of the Gookin Furniture Co. in Prescott street, were consigned to their final resting place this morning.

The funeral, largely attended by local and out-of-town relatives and friends, took place from the home of deceased, 74 Huntington street, the long cortege, headed by two open carriages of flowers, directing its way to the Immaculate Conception church, where a solemn high mass of requiem was sung at 10 o'clock by Rev. Owen P. McQuaid, O.M.I., assisted by Rev. Martin E. Norton, O.M.I., as deacon, and Rev. William W. Noonan, O.M.I., D.C.L., as sub-deacon. Seated in the sanctuary during the service were Very Rev. Daniel J. Keleher, Ph.D., Rev. F. X. McGann, O.M.I., of Tewksbury, Rev. John H. Kennedy, O.M.I., Rev. Peter L. Larkin, O.M.I., and Rev. Charles J. Galligan.

The augmented church choir, under the direction of James S. King, sang the Gregorian mass. At the offertory, Mr. King rendered "Pie Jesu" and after the elevation, Mrs. Alice Dacey Delmore sang "O Myrtum Passionis." The solos in the libera were sustained by James E. Donnelly and Mr. King, while Thomas A. Ginty sustained the solo in the "De Profundis." Miss Marion Ryan was at the organ.

The Immaculate Conception church was filled with sorrowing relatives and friends of deceased, as Mr. Gookin had formed many genuine and lasting associations during his successful career in this city. Among those present in the congregation were Lieut. Martin Connors, Sergt. Hugh Maguire and Traffic Sergeant Edward Connors of the police department.

The Washington Savings bank, with which the son of deceased is connected as a director, was represented by Patrick O'Leary, Hon. John E. Drury, Hon. Charles E. Hanson, Robert E. Crowley and Frank A. Groves.

Lowell lodge, 87, B.P.O.E., was represented by a delegation consisting of John J. Healey, James H. Walker, James J. Spillane, Terrence D. Leonard, John J. O'Donnell and Hon. John T. Sparks.

FOR THE CHILDREN OF LOCAL ORPHANAGES

The annual outing conducted by the Lowell Rotary club for children of local orphanages will be held this year at the Martin Luther grounds on July 22. Already a veteran committee is working out the details of the event and Paul A. Read in charge of transportation is compiling a list of automobiles and trucks which will be available for the trip.

Similar outings have been conducted by the Rotarians for the past two or three years, each succeeding one being more completely satisfactory than its predecessor.

The committee in charge this year includes Harry Pitts, chairman; Dr. Marshall L. Ailing, X. A. Twissie, E. B. Feaster, Walter R. Joyce, Harry G. Pollard, Paul A. Read, Ivan O. Small, Alvah H. Weaver, Clarence M. Weed, Richard J. Welch, Carl B. Wenigmann and Fred E. Jones.

The Washington club delegates were Dr. Joseph P. Kearney, Elias J. McQuaid, William C. Purcell, William F. O'Leary, Thomas F. Kelley and Charles L. Moran.

The bachelors were William A. Hogan, Daniel E. Walker, John H. Gookin, Daniel E. Hogan, John H. Cleary, Cornelius E. Collins, George T. Horan of Boston and John J. Doyle of Lawrence. At the house and church, the ushers were William F. Cawley, John P. Adams, Edward J. Fahy and Maurice Dorgan of Lawrence.

As the funeral cortege proceeded on its way to the cemetery, every furniture store in the city closed its doors as a mark of respect to the inter-dealer. The communal prayers at the grave were read by Rev. Fr. McQuaid and the priests who assisted at the mass. Funeral arrangements were in charge of Funeral Directors James W. McKenna Sons.

FLAYS G. O. P. FOR OIL SCANDAL

Challenges Administration to Name Single Democratic Office Holder Involved

Delegates Pay Tribute to Montana Man's Public Service in Oil Scandal

Walsh Says Honor of Country Demands Return to Ideals of Woodrow Wilson

White Dove Appears in Convention Hall During Second Wilson Demonstration

MADISON SQUARE GARDEN, NEW YORK, June 25.—The pent-up fires of democratic enthusiasm, fed by the rivalries that are moving beneath the surface, found a tumultuous outlet today in the big convention hall. This time it was Senator Walsh of Montana, the oil committee prosecutor, who set the convention aflame, when he appeared on the platform to make his address as permanent chairman.

From the moment his selection for the place was announced, the Garden rang with cheers of approval, and when he took over the gavel, the delegates snatched up their state standards and began a howling parade in tribute to Mr. Walsh's public services in uncovering the scandal of Teapot Dome.

The speech was part of a session devoted to the formalities of perfecting permanent organization while the convention was waiting for its platform committee to settle its difficulties over party declarations.

Meets Hour Earlier
Moving slowly but surely toward its real business, the convention today passed through the second preliminary stage of organization.

Meeting an hour earlier than yesterday, the convention took up the perfection of its permanent organization.

There was just a possibility that the convention managers, seeking to push forward the program, might be able to agree on making a start on the nominating speeches.

The platform committee was busy at work on the declaration of party principles as the convention went into session and the rules committee had amended the order of business to provide for hearing the nominating speeches while the platform builders are at work.

Limit Number of Speeches
The large number of candidates to be placed in nomination had caused the convention managers to shorten the time for nominating speeches, to limit the number of seconding speeches and to lay out a plan to drive ahead at full speed, as soon as the organization preliminaries can be disposed of.

Under a brooding sun that beat down on the Madison Square Garden roof with unrelenting intensity and sent baking heat waves to the mass of humanity on the floor below, the dele-

50 BIG OIL COMPANIES CITED

Attacked in Anti-Trust Proceedings Instituted by Federal Government

Stone Asks Injunction to Restrain Companies From Violating Sherman Act

WASHINGTON, June 25.—Fifty or more of the principal oil companies of the United States were attacked in anti-trust proceedings instituted by the government today in the federal court at Chicago.

Attorney General Stone asked an injunction to restrain the companies from further violation of the Sherman act which he charged against them.

The complaint charged a combination and conspiracy in restraint of trade, and commerce among the several states and with foreign nations in gasoline, kerosene and other hydro-carbon products, or generally all petroleum derivatives.

Nearly all of the important companies, including all of the Standard companies, were cited. The attorney general charged them with having combined to control the production of gasoline by a pooling of asserted patent rights in violation of the anti-trust act, naming as the primary defendants the Standard Oil companies of Indiana and New Jersey, and the Standard Development Co., the Texas Co., and the Gasoline Products Co.

The action constituted one of the most sweeping anti-trust moves on the part of the government in many years. Besides the principals the attorney general named as parties a number of "secondary" defendants, whom he charged were in combination as a result of accepting licenses from one or more of the primary defendants.

TEN LAWRENCE MEN HEARD BY U. S. COMMISSIONER WALSH

Defendants Were Charged With Resisting and Opposing Federal Enforcement Agents—Illegal Possession of Beer Also Charged—Cases Continued Until July 8

Ten Lawrence men were arrested by U. S. Marshal Hart this forenoon and were taken before United States Commissioner Richard B. Walsh at the Gorham street court house, charged with resisting and opposing federal enforcement agents in the service of a search warrant and with destroying beer with an intent to prevent its seizure.

One of the number, Antonio Sylvestro, also is charged with the illegal possession of beer. Those specifically charged with resisting, opposing and destroying are R. Sylvestro, Nick Ruggiero, Joseph Valliere, Lawrence Orsatti, Anthony D'Agostino, Antonio Viglione, Alfonso Camero, Samuel Volantino and Joseph Brusca. On a finding of guilty the maximum penalty is $2000 or a year in jail, or both.

The persons inside refused to open the door. Agent Sullivan declares that the officers were forced to break in through windows. They had heard the breaking of glass and when inside found, they allege, that 150 cases of beer had been destroyed. A total of 289 cases were found intact. The men named in the complaints were taken in while attempting to escape from the hotel. It is alleged.

Atty. Charles A. Donahue of Lowell represents all defendants.

Their cases were called and continued until July 8 for hearing.

The complaints against the men charge that on June 20, Federal Agents Sullivan, Hall, Tremblay and Howdich, accompanied by Patrolmen Casey and Dunn of the Lawrence police, went to a barn in Marion avenue, Lawrence, and demanded admission.

LOWELL MAN HELD FOR THE FEDERAL COURT

After a hearing begun last Friday and finished today before U. S. Commissioner R. B. Walsh, probable cause was found in the case of George Blake of this city, charged with the illegal sale of intoxicating liquor and he was held over in $500 for the federal court.

Several points of law were brought up and argued before the commissioner. The case of George Blake also was called to the stand to testify in his own behalf. He denied ever having sold a drink to Federal Agent Howdich as the latter had testified. The government's case was conducted by Asst. U. S. Dist. Atty. William J. White, Jr.

Ugline Sciacca of Lawrence pleaded guilty to a charge of possessing 43 cases of beer and was held in $500 for the federal court.

AMUSEMENT NOTES

MERRIMACK SQUARE THEATRE

A feature film—certainly; a double bill—often; but a triple all-star attraction—mighty seldom! Yet that is what the cool, delightful Merrimack Square theatre is offering for the latter three days of this week. A Fox super-production, "The Eleventh Hour," starring Charles Jones and Shirley Mason; Will Nigh's "Marriage Morals," with Tom Moore and a strong supporting cast; and Will Rogers, the nonpareil comedian, in "Don't Park Here." What an aggregation of features—and all on one bill! Proclaimed, "The Eleventh Hour" is classed as the melodrama of all time. That this tremendous production will reproduce in this city the successes which it has achieved elsewhere is the confident prediction of the Merrimack Square management. Not only does the screen version of this great story include features which were impractical in its stage production, but the natural advantages of the silent drama contribute toward making it the exemplary production of past and present melodramatic efforts. Vital, compelling, gripping—the story, deftly portrayed by the characters, the action is such that the spectator must feel magnetized by its sheer strength and speed. Airplanes, speedboats and submarines are some of the vehicles used in telling the tale of a weak father, strong lovers and unscrupulous outsiders. The so-called dual standard of morality, elastic for the husband and hidebound for the wife, comes in for a scathing denunciation by Will Nigh in his latest picture, "Marriage Morals." He insists that what is shun for the good is shun for the bad, and that it's all right for a man to play ducks and drakes with a woman's heart, to marry and settle down, and then to be good and ready, then it's all right for a woman to do likewise. The last performance of the Paramount features "Icebound" and "Fanny" take place this evening, and an opportunity missed to see these two great films, contrasted as they are in theme, may never return. On the bill tonight also is a comedy, "Done in Oil" and the regular news special.

RIALTO THEATRE

A romantic, thrilling, though somewhat sombre tale is "The Shadow of the East"—the photoplay which opens at the Rialto theatre on Thursday. It is about an English earl, Barry Craven, who, like many other Englishmen exiled in India, and secretly taken a beautiful native wife, though he still felt the attraction of his own countrywomen.

Much has been written and said about these light joys of the East which men leave so easily, but when Lolore, made with tempestuous love for the rather unresponsive Englishman and with jealousy for an English girl who was visiting India, finally commits suicide, Barry finds it not so easy to forget.

He returns to England—even marries Gillian Locke—but still the shadow of the East hangs over him and becomes a barrier between him and all the things he would hold dear. Unable to bear the torture of it, he goes back at last to aid in war a young shik who is waging against his enemies. He leaves a note telling Gillian the dark secret of his past and his desire for absolution through death in a war. Gillian follows him to India and, regardless of her own danger, to the very field of battle.

So in the end it is her husband, whom she hoped to rescue, who rescues her. And then she finds that he no longer is in need of rescuing for in the thick of the battle he has redeemed his soul and the shadow of the East has at last lifted. Frank Mayo, Mildred Harris and Norman Kerry appear in the principal roles of this production.

Other pictures on the program for the latter half of the week include Charles Hutchinson, the screen's foremost dare-devil in "Ten After Ten," with Anne Luther, an Our Gang comedy and the very latest Fox News.

LOWELL DRIVING CLUB
PLANS BIG RACES

The meeting of the Lowell Driving club held last night was given over largely to perfecting plans for the big races that are to be held at the Golden Cove track, on the afternoon of the Fourth of July. The report of the track committee was an excellent one, showing that the track with its new covering of loam is in the best condition today that it has ever been in. With the list of fast horses that are expected to enter those in charge, believe that one of the greatest racing seasons ever seen at the local track will be staged for the horse racing fans on the holiday afternoon.

Three classes have been advertised for a total of $700 dollars in purses, and it is expected that a special race of considerable interest may be announced in a very few days that will add to the safety of nations. The committee in charge of the annual fair also had some encouraging reports to make, indicating that when the second week in September rolls around, Lowell people may have the privilege of enjoying a good, clean, agricultural exhibit that shall be a credit to all concerned, without going farther than Golden Cove park. While the initial effort of last year was not of the best owing to lack of preparation and its being staged too early, these matters are to be eliminated this year, the committee believing already at work and the fair slated over two weeks later than the date last year.

Waits 52 Years for Varsity Letter He Won at Amherst

By N.E.A. Service
TUCSON, Ariz., June 25.—Fifty-two years in getting a varsity letter, which he won by being a member of a college crew in 1872, is the record of Rev. Arthur Jared Benedict, of Cochise Stronghold, Ariz.

He rowed No. 2 on the Amherst crew which made a record of 18 minutes 32 4-5 seconds for three miles at Springfield, Mass., that still stands as a world's record for six-oared boats. The crews which trailed Amherst that year were Harvard, Massachusetts Aggies, Yale, Bowdoin and Williams.

Life picked the Reverend Benedict up by the name of the next 25 years ago and removed him from his stall New England parish at Housatonic, Mass., to Tombstone, Ariz. He came for his wife's health at a time when two-gun toters made life inordinately precarious for a tenderfoot.

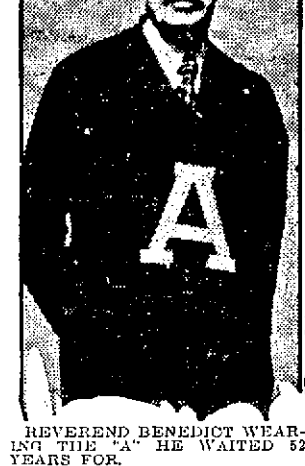

But he had been born in the same town as P. T. Barnum, and so, as he says, had been kidded by experts.

When he rowed in the Amherst crew he was 23 years old, 5 feet 5 3/4 inches tall and weighed 145 pounds. Today, he is 75 years old, 5 feet 8 inches tall and weighs 160 pounds.

In the great Springfield race, which his crew won, Bob Cook, who has been famous for a generation as a captain and amateur coach of Yale, rowed bow in the Eli shell.

Also in that race were Richard H. Dana, son of the author of "Two Years Before the Mast," who rowed bow in the Harvard boat, and Dr. S. A. Sargent, later famous as physical director of Harvard, who sat in a Bowdoin shell.

The Reverend Benedict's brother, John, was No. 1 in the Massachusetts Aggie crew that year and had also rowed in the Springfield regatta the year before.

how many athletic records have stood for 50 years?

To find the reply one might go a little further and ask how many athletes who made records 50 years ago are still alive to ask such a question?

ITEMS OF INTEREST IN WALL STREET

NEW YORK, June 25.—Financial interests are reported to be buying preferred and common shares of St. Louis-Southwestern, one of the first rail issues to move up in yesterday's early trading on the stock exchange. Holding the view, it was said that the issues fell out of line with other railroad stocks showing similar earnings records, and that the poor dividend record must be overlooked in part to give proper appraisal to the value of the property. Consolidation gossip, temporarily discouraged by the Southern Pacific purchase of the El Paso and Southern, also shows signs of revival.

Net operating income of the Chicago, Greatwestern Railroad in the first five months of 1924 dropped to $498,673 from $732,967 in the same period of 1923. Net income for May fell to $55,516, compared with $149,123 in May last year.

In addition to the Missouri Pacific $12,000,000 three year 5 per cent secured notes at 99 1/4 to yield 5.27 per cent to maturity, other new offerings today included $4,500,000 Kentucky utilities company first mortgage lien 6 per cent gold bonds due 1945, at 98 and interest to yield more than 8.50 per cent.

In Freak Cloudbursts

Nature was seen in its angriest mood in a series of phenomenal cloudbursts near Johnson City, Tenn. Four separate torrents raced down Iron Mountain, cutting great holes in its sides, sweeping boulders and trees in its path. The paths cut in the mountain are shown in this photograph. Then it dashed through 20 miles of Carter county, carrying stores, homes and railroad tracks along with it. A dozen persons were killed and scores of families were forced to flee for their lives.

A 20-foot gully was cut through acre after acre of farm land. Near the center can be seen a bush to which Walter Lewis, 7, clung, as he pulled his older brother, Charles, 12, up on the bank. They were compelled to remain there until aid reached them. They and their father, Cecil Lewis, were the only members of a family of nine to escape death.

This is all that remains of a concrete bridge near Elizabethton, Tenn., in the heart of the Carter county cloudburst zone, after the torrents had passed away.

MANY EARLY MORNING
FIRE ALARMS TODAY

In a period of less than three hours early this morning, five alarms for fire were recorded at the Central fire station. The most serious was at 4:41 o'clock when an alarm from box 113 was sounded for a fire in a barn situated on the bank of the Merrimack river in the rear of Perkins street. The fire had gained considerable headway before being discovered and the barn was badly damaged before the blaze was extinguished. The recall was sounded at 4:55.

The first of the early morning fires was at 12 Race street, where rubbish in the cellar had caught fire. A still alarm was sounded and the fire quickly extinguished by firemen from the Race street firehouse.

At 4:14 a. m., box 135 was sent in for fire in an ash barrel in a shed in the rear of 2 Coolidge street. Box 113 was sounded for the second time this morning at 6:09 for a cellar fire in the rear of 232 Allen street. At 6:10 o'clock, the fire in the cellar was smoldering and filled the lower part of the building with smoke, leading the occupants to believe the building was on fire.

The automatic sprinkler alarm in the Holman & Laylor company's store in Middle street went off at 4:55 o'clock. Firemen from the Central fire station answered the alarm but failed to find any fire and found all the sprinkler heads intact. It is believed a short circuit in the electric wiring caused the alarm.

A kerosene lamp overturned in a tenement at 223 Cross street last evening and set fire to furnishings. Occupants of the tenement sounded an alarm from box 117 at 9:19 o'clock. The blaze was quickly extinguished and damage was confined to furnishings in the room where the fire originated.

Box 118 at 8:30 o'clock last night was for an attic fire at 78 Salem st. Damage was slight.

Box 76 at 4:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon was for a fire in the Avon street dump.

BIG CLASS GRADUATED AT MOREY SCHOOL

The Charles W. Morey junior high school last night graduated a class of 231 students in the Cyrus W. Irish auditorium of the high school before an audience which filled the large hall to capacity. It was the first junior high graduation of the school and in the class were students who had received elementary education at the Washington and Lincoln as well as the Morey schools.

Supt. of Schools Hugh J. Molloy was the speaker of the evening and commented upon the great work of the junior high schools and also of the elementary schools of the city in teaching not only the "three R's" but also the qualities of citizenship. There were brief remarks by the mayor. The other numbers on the program consisted of the final meeting of the school student council, orchestral and solo selections, and declamations by members of the graduating class.

John H. Preston of the school committee presented the diplomas and he spoke briefly on the value of education, concluding with the poem, "When a Man's a Man."

The graduates were as follows: Russell Arthur Armstrong, Ernest Hawkins Aspinall, Harry William Bailey, Walter Samuel Bean, Frederick Squire Beattie, Jr., Gerald Thomas Boyle, William Robert Brady, Edmund King Cheney, Henry Merrill Cooke, George O. ## SAYS CONVENTION CALLED TO SELECT NEXT PRESIDENT OF UNITED STATES

SEN. THOMAS J. WALSH OF MONTANA, PERMANENT CHAIRMAN

Chairman Walsh Says Opportunity is Before Delegates to Choose Leader Who Will Carry Party to Victory in November—Glowing Tribute to Wilson

MADISON SQUARE GARDEN, New York, June 25.—(By the Associated Press) Hon. Thomas J. Walsh, U. S. senator from Montana, in delivering his speech as permanent chairman of the convention, said:

Hon. Thomas J. Walsh, U. S. senator from Montana, in delivering his speech as permanent chairman of the convention, said:

Judge not of my gratitude nor of the depth of my appreciation of the honor you do me by the brevity of my acknowledgment, if I say simply, I thank you. Both are profound.

I am your servant, called to aid you in the discharge of the great tasks with which you have been entrusted to expedite the business you have in mind, to see that it proceeds in such orderly fashion as is essential to due deliberation and a fair hearing for every cause. I am powerless without your co-operation to these ends. That it will be given in unstinted measure I entertain no doubt. The momentous character of this occasion is universally recognized. The eyes of the world are upon us.

We are assembled in this great city, the metropolis of our country, as the representatives of one of its historic political parties to select the next president of the United States. True, our choice must be ratified in due form, but guided in our deliberations by the Spirit of Wisdom invoked in prayer the event is not uncertain. The opportunity is ours. The duty, the responsibility, is ours. The nation expects, yea demands, of us, a leader who exemplifies the principles of government associated with the name of Thomas Jefferson, a leader whose heart is attuned to the pulsations of those who labor on the farm and in the field, in the mills and work-shops, at the forge and in the mines, at the desk and in the home, who leads the way of all the people for a larger life rather than the pleasure of the few, the favorites of fortune, who are eager to exploit their fellows; a leader who has the vision to divine and the courage to pursue the paths to which national honor points and that lead to national, as distinguished from exceptional, prosperity.

Pays Tribute to Wilson

Such a leader our party lately gave to the nation to guide its course and direct its energies in the greatest crisis that ever rocked the globe. By sheer force of his intellectual supremacy among the statesmen of the world, he assumed, by common consent, the primary and, holding it, gave to the country, in whose name he spoke, a place in the family of nations never before attained. He clinched attention to the lofty ideals of America in a manner never equaled and met with a response so generous as that for all time her sons will be thrilled at the story of his exposition of them.

In so far as he failed to secure their acceptance as the ruling principles in international relations, his countrymen who derided his efforts and undermined his influence must bear the blame. Note the bitter fruits of their triumph. Proclaiming that selfishness is the only constant or controlling factor in intercourse between governments and duplicity ever to be approached, the view found ready acceptance that ideals in any governmental affairs are only the vain hope of the visionary.

"Back to normalcy" meant back to the methods and practices of a day that was dead, of a generation ago, when Hanna ruled and Aldrich legislated, when the senate was a millionaire's club, doing the bidding of the "invisible government." In an atmosphere tainted with such mischievous views, Newberry readily applied to a seat in the upper house of congress to be achieved by the lavish and corrupt expenditure of his great wealth, and in the general let down in the moral tone met with a temporary success.

Every predatory interest foregathered to restore to power the protagonists of a venal and discarded theory of government, and having accomplished that end, they or their representatives, swarmed about the president-elect and the perils of the capitol, each seeking to promote his own individual selfish project or purpose.

It was easy to pass from the idea expressed in "every nation for itself" to the related thought in "Every man for himself." This recession to a lower moral standard was not a phenomenon without a historic parallel.

"Thou Shalt Not Steal"

A little less than a generation ago, a president of the United States repeatedly declaimed, in what was by some regarded as intemperate language, against the venal and corrupt influences that had become manifest in our national life. He did more. He invoked the penalties of the law against manufacturers, high and low, and if it be true, as charged, that he occasionally looked leniently on the offenses of his friends, it is equally true that he acted as well as his words contributed materially to a restored respect for the moral command, "Thou shalt not steal," as applicable no less to the affairs of government than to those of private life. There followed a period when a complacent president tolerated the return of the spirit partially exercised by his predecessor, giving rise to the Bullinger scandal, a symptom of the resurgence of the elements within his party that had used and were determined to use the agencies of the government within and without, wherever safe, without the law, for private gain.

The catastrophe, which overtook the republican party in consequence of the revolt in its own ranks against the sinister influences which dominated it need not be recounted, but it is significant of the character of their protest that that organization was denounced by one-half of its former adherents as essentially and irretrievably corrupt, and that they signified "Onward, Christian Soldiers." I say nothing of the period of democratic ascendancy which followed, further than that after public moneys, in sums the magnitude of which the ordinary mind has and can have no adequate conception except by comparison, had been authorized and spent in the prosecution of the greatest war of all time, by those who, during that season of storm, represented us officially, and investigation after investigation, undertaken by their political opponents, had revealed nothing culpable, the inquiry collapsed under the scorn of the gentleman who, two weeks ago, was accorded by the republican party the second honor in the gift.

When it is remembered that it was the same elements within it that controlled and wrecked that party in 1912, which retained the supremacy in 1920, over a more or less reunited organization, contemptuous of all aspirations having a spiritual basis, either in national or international affairs, arrogant in victory, it is not surprising that its promises solemnly made in its platform to promote the organization of an association of nations, for the adjustment of international controversies, to supplant the League of Nations with which the name of the greatest American president, save only Washington, Jefferson and Lincoln, is so intimately associated, should be speedily consigned to oblivion.

Harding Surrounded by Mercenaries

Those things considered, it will not appear so strange either that the new president was speedily surrounded by a group of mercenaries, whose sinister purposes he was, from his kindly nature, loath to suspect and, for one reason or another, unable to discern. What a gala day! Forbes, Fall, Daugherty, Jess Smith, Mannington, Feltner, Garden, Kramer, with Roxie Sisson and Gaston B. Means in the background.

Was the appearance of these worthies purely accidental, sporadic in character? If it was not to be apprehended on account of conditions so bitterly denounced by the revolting republicans in 1912, consider how the leaders of the party to which they belonged have treated them in the delinquencies and villainies. What clarion voice has been raised from any high official quarter against Forbes, the despoiler of the disabled veteran, or Fall, who bartered away an all-important element of the national defense under circumstances he dare not tell lest he confess criminality?

In its virile youth the men whose names blazon the pages of the history of the republican party did not hesitate to declaim against the corruption that was sapping its vitality. The venality that stained the administration of General Grant, though it left him untouched, was denounced by none more roundly or with greater effect than by William Cullen Bryant, William E. Curtis, Carl Schurz, Lyman Trumbull, Joseph McGill, Charles Francis Adams, and John Bigelow, political associates of Abraham Lincoln. They found no extension of the crimes that in their day polluted the record of the party they had helped set on foot, in a supposed after-the-war psychology.

Instead of exhorting the unfaithful public servants of whose misdeeds the uttermost parts of the earth are not uninformed, to the disgrace of the nation as well as of themselves, palliation is attempted in the absurd observation, emanating from the White House, that "men are involved who belong to both political parties," a charge characterized by one of the few leading republican papers that have declined to condone the offenses revealed as a "paltry bit of political misrepresentation."

Responsibility Rests on G. O. P.

Commenting further on the disclosures touching the leases of the naval oil reserves the same journal remarked pertinently that the "matter of real concern is the corrupt procedure of a member of the cabinet and the connivance of two of his colleagues" and that "it is inconceivable that responsibility for the scandal rests square upon the republican party."

It is in this easy tolerance of turpitude in public office that the real peril to free government lies rather than in its casual occurrence.

Touching the abuse heaped upon those through whose efforts the investigations were made effective and the congress which authorized them, the president of the foremost woman's college, in America, wrote: "I am amazed, not at congress but at the people, who seem for the first time in history to contemplate graft in high office with resignation." The distinguished educator must have meant some of the people, for I cannot believe that more than a negligible number regard with unconcern either the ignominy uncovered or the palpable falsehood of the republican platform in its assertion that "the recent congressional investigations have exposed instances in both political parties of men in public office who are willing to sell official favor." If one democratic office-holder has been involved by the investigators for anything he did while in office let him be named. But if it be true that the moral tone of our people has been so debased as to contemplate graft in high office with resignation, at whose doors shall the blame be laid if not at those of the republican party, whose spokesmen, appalled at first by the disclosures, rallied to level their guns, not at those guilty of the dereliction made public, but at those who laid them bare.

President Shielded Delinquents

The president of the United States himself has not hesitated to endeavor to shield the delinquents from the public odium to which their derelictions have subjected them by joining in the hue and cry against the investigations that have been conducted under the authority of the senate and against that body for authorizing them. His message on the subject had for its plain purpose the suppression of an inquiry into the official conduct of a member of his cabinet. It is true he has historic warrant, if precedent be a warrant for his attitude. When the British house of commons sought to investigate the prodigal and corrupt Duke of Buckingham, in connection with the ill-fated descent upon Cadix, Charles wrote that body, "I see you especially aim at the Duke of Buckingham. I must let you know that I will not allow any of my servants to be questioned among you, much less such as are of eminent place and near me." Charles lost his head and Calvin Coolidge may profit politically by his example.

People Are on Trial

I repeat I cannot admit the accusation that the people of America are indifferent to the corroding influence of corruption in office, high or low. But we shall see. They are on trial. If notwithstanding what has transpired the party now in power in the nation is continued in control by the choice of the people of the United States, apparent or real, what judgment must be passed upon them by the world? They enjoy the distinction of having erected and maintained a government whose officers are as free from suspicion of venality as those of any nation on earth, and they will not, I venture to predict, forfeit it.

In the hour of the triumph of materialism and selfishness, when the policy of isolation was said to have been overwhelmingly endorsed; when, as stated, every sordid interest clamored to Washington, the republican party entered upon the task of revising the tariff. No portentous voice now dispersed the invidious lobby over night. The schedules show its handiwork. Lighter than ever before mounted the rates. If I had my way, said Senator Gooding of Idaho, "I would make the duty so high that there would be a complete embargo against every manufactured article that can be produced in this country."

There is an exquisite harmony between the policy of isolation and of a protective tariff as conceived by this statesman, and as exemplified in the act of 1922. Why trouble ourselves about the troubles of Europe? Let her stew in her own juice. Let us not even trade with her. Of course no such policy was or could be pursued.

A decent respect for the unfortunate ultimate consumer placed some restraint upon the rapacity of the favor seekers. The promptings of common humanity no less than the distress of agriculture relying upon markets across the sea forced a grudging attention to conditions prevailing and events transpiring there. The people of Europe have been constantly calling upon our private citizens to aid in bringing order out of the chaos there, intensifying the impatience of the people. Root went at their request to assist in drafting the statute for the world court, John Bassett Moore to sit as one of its judges, Abram Elkus to arbitrate the Aland Island dispute, Norman Davis to adjust the Poland-Lithuania boundary controversy, Henry Morgenthau to promote the establishment in industry of the Greek refugees, Charles G. Dawes to solve the reparations tangle, and Professor Shotwell and General Bliss to work out a disarmament program. But the government of the United States must do nothing lest the irreconcilables disrupt the republican party.

Farmers Bankrupt

For the harmony thus secured and the prosperity enjoyed by the tariff beneficiaries the farmers of the northwest have paid until bankruptcy among them is general. No such disaster has ever befallen that section. The depressed period of the nineties on which republican orators dangled for a generation bore no comparison to the present deplorable era. According to the secretary of agriculture 40 per cent. of all the farmers in South Dakota are virtually bankrupt; 42 per cent. in Colorado; 60 per cent. in North Dakota; 51 per cent. in Wyoming; 62 per cent. in Montana and approximately 25 per cent. in the hitherto prosperous states of Iowa and Minnesota. The farmers' dollar, measured by the standard of agriculture 40 per cent. of all the farmers in South Dakota are virtually bankrupt; 42 per cent. in Colorado; 60 per cent. in North Dakota; 51 per cent. in Wyoming; 62 per cent. in Montana and approximately 25 per cent. in the hitherto prosperous states of Iowa and Minnesota. Though conditions are most acute in the northwest, every product that must find a foreign market is affected. Banks are suspending at the rate of more than a thousand per year, signifying social readjustments of the most far-reaching character. We are officially informed that the net change of population from farm to town during 1923 was over 1,200,000 accelerating a movement in progress in recent decades that had already excited general alarm.

The tremendous reduction in the purchasing power of the farm population is already reflected in increased unemployment in most of the leading industries.

Republican Party Impotent

In the face of an impending national calamity the republican party is impotent. Held fast by the great monopolistic beneficiaries of the tariff it dare not lower the rates even on those commodities, a reduction in the price of which would be of immediate benefit to the farmer, lest the whole structure should tumble. Hoping for another victory by perseverance, its opposition to the only plan yet devised by the nations looking to the outlawry of war, it dare not take a step toward the pacification of Europe, with a view to the restoration of its normal purchasing power, lest it be wrecked by the passions it aroused to accomplish the rejection of the covenant of the League of Nations for no better reason than it was sponsored by a democratic president. It has no remedy, it offers no relief from the paralysis that afflicts agriculture, threatening every form of industry. Moreover, it finds itself plagued with representatives in both houses of congress, representative of current thought among their constituents, holding views so radically antagonistic to those of the dominant faction in the party as to preclude the possibility of uniting on any program of legislation. Its frantic effort to rid itself of the embarrassment of these insubstantial members is as ludicrous as it will prove futile. They cannot be shaken off. They have the endorsement of their people. No regular or stand-pat republican could make head against any one of them. They represent a revolt in a region overwhelmingly republican against the policies of the republican party. With their aid the democratic members of the congress wrote the revenue act lately approved in defiance of the recommendation of the president and his secretary of the treasury, a chapter in the history of congressional legislation without, it is believed, a parallel. They encouraged, promoted and actively aided in the investigations of the executive departments in conjunction with the democratic members and co-operated with them in securing appropriate action touching the revelations made by the various committees. They revolted against the choice of the majority of their party for the chairmanship of one of the leading committees of the senate and elevated a democratic member to that place. The republican party has ceased to be an organization through which the business of the country can be carried on. Nor is that the end of the antagonisms within the party.

The president was at odds with the majority wing, with which he is supposed to be sympathetic, on the world court, the pension bill, the adjusted compensation bill and to a greater or less extent, on the immigration bill. And now to cap the climax uneasily dissensions rend the party organization charged with the conduct of the campaign about to begin. If there be not the signs of dissolution, at least disaster may be read in the formal severance of any allegiance which may ensue on the part of the so-called progressive wing of the party about to duplicate the revolt of 1912 and effect an independent organization.

Upon the record of the democratic party through eight years of glorious history from 1913 to 1921 we submit that it should again be entrusted with the direction of our national affairs. There is no spot upon that record, it shines resplendent. No like period in our history is more crowded with great events or has presented problems more profound. It is signalled by the enactment of more legislation for the common good than is recorded in our annals for any other equal number of years. The exigencies arising from the sudden outbreak of the war in 1914 and the collapse of the world's system of exchange were met in a fashion that defied criticism.

The two schemes of legislation involved in the sanguinary conflict its resources in men and material were marshaled in a way that astonished our allies and brought consternation to the ranks of our enemies. The financing of the great enterprise reflected the highest credit upon the party that undertook its direction. True, the towering genius, the rival, in intellect, of Jefferson, who held the helm in that period of stress and strain, is no more. The stricken statesman rests secure in the reverential regard of his countrymen. But his high ideals, his lofty purposes, his trust in the judgment of the plain people remain our heritage. Though he saw plainly and pointed unerringly to the evils in the body politic, it is in no sense derogatory to his fame that the legislation conceived to meet the situation which gave lustre to this administration was the work of other more practical and perhaps practical, if less brilliant, minds. The mutations in their ranks have in no wise operated to impair their efficiency as a body, or make them less responsive to the heart throbs of the plain people. Witness the revenue law of the last session, the rival, in intellect, of Jefferson, who held the helm in that period of stress and strain, is no more. ## Democracy's Bosses

BY HARRY B. HUNT
N.E.A. Service Writer

WASHINGTON, June 25.—Who'll smash the deadlock at New York? Why the Irish!

That is, unless the sons who trace their lineage to the Auld Sod have lost their cunning in politics. And they're not yet ready to concede that point.

While candidates and delegates are milling around in a feverish finish in an attempt to round up enough votes for themselves or their favorite, the real forces likely to play the big part in effecting consolidations of support sufficient to nominate are keeping in the background, their strategy already laid, waiting for the psychological moment to move.

These are the men who, as bosses in districts sufficiently powerful to influence the result in pivotal states, can coerce a following far outside the limits of each boss's ballroom.

The Big Three

First and foremost in this group of political chieftains who will attempt to manipulate the nomination for their own greater power are George Brennan, Chicago; Tom Taggart, Indianapolis; and George Washington Olvany, New York.

Brennan, a huge man with a bull voice and a wooden leg, who came to power through many bitter battles in Cook county politics, is credited by many with being the shrewdest politician of the bunch.

Only second to him as an expert in the shifting of political rivers is Tom Taggart, who came from Monahan, Ireland, and who for 20 years has held Hoosier democracy under his thumb. Tom served a while as senator, by appointment, following the death of Senator Shively, but prefers the game of picking others for office rather than holding office himself.

Plenty of Advice

Olvany is as yet untested in the larger field of political basism. He is the newly chosen chief of Tammany Hall, a long-headed, cold-eyed individual who until recently has been a judge in the New York court of special sessions.

Olvany's inexperience, however, will be fortified by the advice and counsel of Tammany's politically clever candidate, Gov. Al Smith, and, for New York democratic interests as a whole by Norman Mack of Buffalo, up-state leader and former chairman of the democratic national committee.

Next in line as bosses of slightly lesser influence, but who must be dealt with if the selection ultimately is decided by an inside-machine combination, come James Michael Curley of Boston, and Frank Hague of New Jersey.

Curley, mayor of Boston, president of the Hibernia Savings bank of the Hub and leading member of the Tammany club of Boston, is counted on to handle the New England ballots in any home-made election.

They All Help

Hague, mayor of Jersey City, will have the New Jersey votes at his disposal. And even that small group might be just the number needed to turn the trick.

Joseph Guffy of Pennsylvania, while not qualifying as a "boss" in the sense of these others, may be listed as a likely "insider" in any effort to handpick the candidate to break the deadlock. Similarly, Tom Love of Texas will be a probable consultant in such arrangements.

Far outside the delegations directly controlled or indirectly influenced by the Brennan-Taggart-Olvany-Curley-Hague combination, the Pennsylvania and Texas delegations are the most powerful.

So, if nobody else can break the deadlock—just leave it to the Irish. They may decide to break it for themselves anyway.

To substitute a majority for the two-thirds nomination rule appeared to have vanished with the rules committee's overwhelming vote to maintain the tradition.

The rules committee, however, in adopting its report did not touch on the question of unit voting, and some of its members wanted a decision by the convention itself on the issue whether a majority of a state delegation may be permitted to bind the whole to support a single candidate when not so instructed by state conventions or primaries.

To Carry Contest to Floor

Also out of the credentials committee hearing—marked by only two contests—came, the announcement by Mrs. Angie V. Kingsley, chairman of the democratic central committee of Hennepin (Minneapolis) county, Minnesota, that her contest against 11 of that state's 23 delegates, would be carried to the floor.

Mrs. Kingsley's contest was dismissed with only two negative votes on the ground that she had not presented a prima facie case, within the scope of the committee. She announced after consultation with her counsel, C. C. Daniels of New York, brother of the former naval secretary, that her demands would be placed before the convention in a minority report by Daniel C. Roper, former collector of internal revenue and district of Columbia member of the committee.

Nominating Speeches First

In the other contest, which came from Oregon, McAdoo supporters on the committee were credited with winning the decision by which Judge Thomas C. Burke was seated to fill the vacancy in the delegation caused by the illness of Frank S. Myers of Portland, over the claims advanced in behalf of Miss Claire Pierce, daughter of Gov. Pierce. This decision made by a 20 to 14 vote, also involved reorganization of the state delegation.

The rules committee recommendations for convention procedure gave precedence over the platform committee's report to nominating speeches for presidential candidates with voting to follow adoption of the declaration of principles.

Today's convention session was called for 11 a. m. eastern daylight saving time, with consideration of the reports of the credentials and permanent organization committees following the invocation by Bishop Thomas F. Gallor of the Protestant Episcopal church and preceding the address of Senator Walsh.

WHITE ON BLACK

Black crepe de chine dresses are given an interesting touch by the use of white pearl buttons and button holes bound with white silk.

FINE PLEATS

A French shop is importing very charming frocks of flat crepe finely accented with pleats and trimmed with hand hemstitching.

DRAFTING OF THE PLATFORM

Actual Work is in Hands of Sub-Committee Appointed Early This Morning

Foreign Relations, Klan, Prohibition and Farm Relief Most Difficult Problems

NEW YORK, June 25. Actual drafting of the party's declaration of principles today was in the hands of a sub-committee appointed early this morning after the platform committee of the democratic national convention had completed a lengthy hearing on numerous proposals.

Declarations on foreign relations, farm relief, prohibition and the Ku Klux Klan formed the most difficult problems confronting the sub-committee, which was called to begin its labors at 10 a. m. under the chairmanship of Homer S. Cummings of Connecticut, who also heads the full committee.

Members of the drafting committee, which is made up of William Jennings Bryan, Florida; William H. O'Brien, Indiana; William A. Ayers, Kansas; Senator David L. Walsh of Massachusetts; former Sen. Gilbert M. Hitchcock, Nebraska; Senator Key Pittman, Ne-

With Burst of Music, New York Opens Her Doors

With bands playing and flags waving, New York officially opened her doors to visiting delegates to the convention with a municipal parade on Fifth Avenue. Thousands marched and many more thousands watched. Arrow indicates Madison Square Garden, where the convention is being staged.

Robert L. Owen, Oklahoma, and Representative Philip J. Garrett, Tennessee, were optimistic but not inclined before they went into executive session, to make definite predictions as to when they would finish their task.

The hearing of the full committee, which was begun shortly after adjournment of the opening session of the convention yesterday afternoon, continued until after 1 o'clock this morning, with most of the oratory centering about the League of Nations and prohibition.

A large number of other subjects were discussed, however, by spokesmen for various organizations and groups, and the committee was warned by Representative Harry B. Hawes of Missouri and Justice Aitch of Colorado, that the fight for a specific denunciation of the Ku Klux Klan would be carried to the convention floor if the name of the order should be left out of the "evil and religious liberty" plank by the platform drafters. Committeemen from Massachusetts, Ohio, Minnesota and Wisconsin also went on record as urging mention of the Klan, and when opposing views were invited by the chair, including a call for Imperial Wizard Evans, no voice was raised against the proposal.

When the hearing opened, members of the committee were asked to file with the secretary any written suggestions drawn by them or submitted to them for presentation, and in a few moments, the desk was deluged, with more promised today.

The requests of organized labor as represented by the American Federation of Labor were placed before the drafting committee today by President Gompers, Secretary Morrison and other members of the organization. These were the same as those urged upon the republican convention at Cleveland.

The Arizona delegation, which was deadlocked yesterday over organization, agreed unanimously on one thing and that was that their state flag had been hung upside down in the lobby of their hotel quarters. One of their number was sent to the hotel management and the flag was soon rearranged with the sunset rightside up.

MASS. DELEGATES ACTIVE AT CONVENTION

NEW YORK, June 25.—The New England delegates to the democratic convention devoted their energies last evening to a serious attempt to keep cool.

Delegates Cheer Walsh

Senator David L. Walsh made one of the perfunctory motions on which the delegates voted at yesterday's session of the convention. It was not a very important matter—he moved that all planks submitted be referred without debate to the committee on resolutions—but it was enough to give the Massachusetts delegates an opportunity of which they availed themselves to stand and cheer him.

This incident also called the attention of the 10,000 people, more or less, in the Garden to the fact that Massachusetts is on the map in this convention, although it has no candidate of its own for president, as the republicans of this state had in Cleveland two weeks ago.

The only other member of the Massachusetts delegation who attracted special attention in the convention yesterday was City Councilor James A. Watson of Boston. When Senator Harrison made the reference to Woodrow Wilson which caused the long demonstration of enthusiasm, "Jerry," as everybody calls him, carried the Massachusetts banner in the parade around the great hall. Yesterday by the way, was Mr. Watson's birthday.

Two more Massachusetts men yesterday received honorary appointments in connection with the convention, Arthur Lyman of Waltham, who was chairman of the democratic state committee two years ago and is one of the delegates-at-large to the convention, was made the honorary vice-president from Massachusetts, and Joseph B. Ely of Westfield, who was candidate for the nomination for governor in 1922 and also is a delegate-at-large, was chosen honorary secretary. These appointments were made by the Massachusetts delegation and approved by the convention.

Curleys Arrive

Mayor James M. Curley and Mrs. Curley appeared in New York yesterday and attended the session of the convention. Almost every prominent Boston democrat is now in the city. Ex-Mayor Fitzgerald came with the Massachusetts delegation on the boat last Sunday evening and ex-Mayor Peters also is here. Nobody knows how many future mayors of Boston are on hand.

Col. William A. Gaston, who ran against Senator Lodge two years ago, is here, and an interesting rumor connected with him has been heard in other hotels although it apparently has not yet reached the Massachusetts delegation. Col. Gaston is not a delegate and consequently has no part in the convention, but it is said that he is doing what he can to help the cause of Gov. Smith.

The gossip is that, if by chance it happens that Gov. Smith is not nominated and the convention turns to the middle west or the far west for a candidate for the presidency, Col. Gaston may be brought forward as a candidate for vice-president. If he wanted it, he would have the solid support of the Massachusetts delegation and probably of New England as a whole. But that contingency is far off.

Massachusetts is so much committed to Gov. Smith that the members of the delegation apparently have not considered the necessity of making a second choice in case it appears that Gov. Smith cannot be nominated. Everything will depend on the circumstances which exist at that time, if it ever comes.

CRAPES POPULAR

For mid-summer the crepe and chiffon came to the front. This season many of the loveliest ones are in plaid in tartan patterns or in black and white with just a touch of some vivid color.

CONVENTION NOTES

NEW YORK, June 25.—With another hot day in prospect, delegates to the democratic national convention before entering Madison Square Garden today, took a look about for "the mothers of New York," a group of women, who yesterday distributed fans to all those attending the convention.

These women yesterday were about the most popular in the convention as they distributed arms full of strong paper fans, which later in the hands of delegates and others, by their steady flutter, gave the gathering an appearance different from the San Francisco meeting of four years ago, when no fans were needed.

The scarcity of tickets appeared to continue today as on the opening day yesterday but the supply of badges seemed to be on the increase, many enterprising gentlemen having discovered that a badge is almost as good as a ticket.

Hotel lobbies last night were pretty well sprinkled with persons wearing official badges of one sort or another, which will get them into the convention. Visitors were seen dashing to dinners and theatres in luxurious automobiles which probably could not be induced to carry a message to the president of the United States, but were badges indicating that "messengers" of the convention. There also was a plethora of "sergeants-at-arms."

Gov. Smith today has the baseball bat intended by "Babe" Ruth for the late President Harding. When he went to speak at the annual luncheon of The Associated Press, in April, 1922, Mr. Harding attended a baseball game at the Yankee stadium, and in talking to "The King of Swat," expressed a desire for an autographed bat. But Mr. Harding died before Ruth could deliver the bat.

Ruth yesterday called at Smith headquarters and offered the New York governor the bat he had autographed for Mr. Harding.

"Governor, I'm kind to see you set for a home run," he remarked. "If I can handle the delegates the way you handle a bat the result will be all right," said the governor returning the compliment.

Vance C. McCormick, former democratic chairman, and manager of Wilson's second campaign, says he is having the time of his life, sitting on the side lines watching the fun. Mr. McCormick said he had no candidate and did not know who would win the nomination.

OUT OUR WAY

In New York

BY STEPHEN HANNAGAN.

NEW YORK, June 25.—This is one of the tragedies of Broadway that can't be told with names. A broken old woman tottered into the lobby of one of those exclusive hotels on the upper reaches of the famous thoroughfare of broken promises and broken hearts.

In her raincoat she was a dash of the styles of many periods of the past. It included bright green hose. With toothless interest she gaped at a wedding reception, looking longingly at a flower-like girl receiving the congratulations of scores of fashionably dressed guests.

A bellboy snickered. "They say she's her daughter," he confided, pointing toward the bag and the bride-to-be.

The old woman was once the pampered darling of a wealthy man. He sent her child to France to be educated and brought her home only when a husband had been chosen for her.

Meanwhile, the mother, ruined by drugs and drink, was cast aside, forgotten even by the daughter, who never really knew her.

The beauty of yesteryear stared dully from her background seat awhile—then slipped unobtrusively away. The daughter never will know.

She thinks her mother died years ago.

One of the most modern sights seen on picturesque lower Third avenue during a stroll one evening was two elderly men of foreign birth, with whiskers drooping to their waists, smoking American cigarettes.

I watched them puff for 15 minutes, feeling that an opportunity to summon a nearby fire department would be presented. But there was no fire—only smoke.

Westover Court is an apartment building between 43rd and 44th streets on Broadway that rarely is noticed.

Yet there are 104 apartments in the building and in them have lived numerous prominent authors and actors.

The entrance is on the side streets and there is a complete air of dignified mystery about the place which is for men only.

Men have written great books and composed songs and music that made them wealthy in their lives in the midst of Broadway's glitter—yet completely apart from it.

Harry Bruno, a publicist, lives there. Often I visit him. The place is so quaint and old-fashioned I always feel like Romeo must have felt the night he threw stones at Juliet's balcony.

The younger generation of the foreign population no longer grows up to be bootblacks and banana barkers.

On one side of the street of a lane in the foreign quarter last night a bare hand was reaching out from a window and waving.

On the other side three young men were practicing acrobatic stunts on a roof.

It's vaudeville actors they all want to be.

THE OLD HOME TOWN

BARTLETT SCHOOL TEAM BANQUETED

Members of the Bartlett school athletic teams were banqueted last night in the school gymnasium as a mark of appreciation for their splendid success during the past year, the school teams having won the basketball and baseball championships and having been runners up for the football title.

The banquet was served at 5.30 o'clock and present in addition to the members of the team were Mayor John J. Donovan, Supt. of Schools Hugh J. Mulloy, Donald R. McIntyre, head of the department of physical education in the city schools, Miss Charlotte Murkland, principal of the school, Coach Joseph Duffy and several members of the school faculty.

Each of the guests was called upon for remarks and each in turn praised the team members for their great work in upholding the honor of the Bartlett school in sports. On behalf of the city and the school, Mayor Donovan presented the baseball squad with watch fobs. At the conclusion of the exercises, the boys united in cheering those present for their words of appreciation.

Tourists from the United States spent $118,500,000 in Canada last year.

SALE OF OLD B. &amp; M. RAILROAD STATION

The old Boston and Maine railroad station in Central street, a former home of the Lowell exchange of the New England Telephone Co., has been purchased for investment purposes by Edwin A. Simpson, who has held it under lease since 1913. The city assessment is $224,000, which is less than the transfer price, it is said. Attorneys J. Gilbert Hill and Arthur C. Spalding handled the sale for Mr. Simpson.

The old railroad property covers a large area in addition to the frontage in Central street. The ground floors are given over to various enterprises including the Rialto theatre and the Boulder store. The C. F. Hatch Co. occupies much of the rear part of the building and there also is a large garage in the property where it fronts on George street. The building has a depth of 500 feet on Williams and Green streets.

JEWS ARE PLANNING BIG RECEPTION TO VISITORS

Orthodox Jewry of Massachusetts is planning a monster welcome of a very special nature to the representatives of the world rabbi's delegation, which is to arrive in Boston, July 1, for a few days' stay. Lowell Jewry will have representatives at the reception demonstration. Rabbi Elias Wolfson of the local synagogues has been especially invited to attend and participate in the welcoming program.

This visit to New England on the part of noted Jewish rabbis from foreign lands is almost unprecedented. The delegation to visit Boston on the first leg of its itinerary on July 1 next consists of Rabbi Abraham I. Kook, chief rabbi of Palestine; Rabbi Abraham Ber Schapiro, chief rabbi of Lithuania, and Rabbi M. Epstein, dean of Siahorta Theological academy. These distinguished leaders of the Jewry beyond the seas are planning to tour America in the interest of religious schools and academies in eastern Europe and Palestine. These institutions, as a result of economic distress, are threatened with extinction.

The Boston reception committee has arranged for a banquet to be held in Paul Revere hall, Mechanics building, Tuesday evening, July 1. This committee is also considering calling a mass meeting.

Rabbi Kook, one of the coming visitors to American shores, is a recognized Talmudic scholar and a champion of Jewish rights in the ancient fatherland of Israel. He holds many decorations and honorary orders from the British government. Rabbi Kook has also gained the highest respect of Christians and Moslems.

The delegation represents the central relief committee of this country, which is making a desperate effort to maintain the Yehudim Torahs and the Yeshivahs in Ukraine, Poland, Lithuania, Hungary, Czechoslovakia and Palestine. They desire to continue training 250,000 Jewish children of eastern Europe, which is dependent upon the continuation of the religious schools. The delegation also seeks means of maintaining 30,000 Jewish orphans.

ELKS WILL INVADE THE COMMODORE

Members of Lowell lodge of Elks and their friends will invade the Commodore ballroom on Thorndike street Friday night for the annual Rose party and dance. For some years past Lowell lodge has conducted a similar event during the summer season and the affair always proved to be a huge success.

The proceeds of the party will be given to the local committee of the Boston convention. Michael J. Markham, P. E. R. heads the committee and is assisted by a large number of members. Plans are nearly completed and indications point to a "brilliant event." Tickets are in the hands of the committee or may be procured at the Commodore on Friday evening. Several features will be on the program and a real enjoyable evening is assured to those who attend. Miner-Dorley's orchestra will play for dancing and there will be special numbers for those of the older school. Tickets are 50 cents.

TRAFFIC IRRITANTS

Many of our most important highways are becoming so congested both day and night in the summer months, that the situation is contributing another traffic safety problem to the many with which the Massachusetts highway commission and motor vehicle officials have to cope.

The gasoline stations, far more numerous this year than last, do not constitute so serious a problem as the rapidly multiplying large and small refreshment stands now lining many highways, many of them not very far apart, dispensing cold drinks, food of the quick sandwich variety and sometimes farm vegetables and fruits.

These stands, big and small, are naturally thickly situated on the heaviest traveled roads, because more business can be done. When several cars are lined up at one of these highway refreshment stands, there is usually not only serious congestion, but actual danger always imminent.

We are informed that the conditions in Massachusetts created by the enormous increase in wayside stands this season, are now being seriously studied by the commissioner of public works and the commissioner of public safety. There is no question but what the wayside merchants of the summer season are within their rights, and there is no law by which these stands, if properly conducted, can be eliminated. The business, of course, is entirely legitimate in most cases. Complainants insist that it is not the sales service business which constitutes the real problem, but due to the rapid expansion in the last two years, there are many such trading institutions that are now a menace to safe highway travel instead of a boon for travelers of the motor world.

The Massachusetts commissioners, it is said, as a result of their study of the situation, are convinced, believe that what seems to be needed is the application of some of the city traffic regulations to the rural roads. That, of course, would require the passage of new laws.

OUR CITIZEN SOLDIERY

Lowell military organizations affiliated with the Massachusetts National Guard, are reported to be ready for the coming annual summer military training sessions, scheduled to be held at Camp Devens, starting early next month.

July is generally the hottest month of the year. Nearly every time the volunteer soldiers encamp at Devens, the weather appears to be continuously torrid and most uncomfortable.

We understand that a campaign is now under way among friends of the national guard and leaders, as well as members of several large volunteer units, also, to have the annual Bay State encampments conducted either earlier or later in the year. This is desirable for the personal comfort of all military participants, for one thing, and because conditions of weather and temperatures are apt to be more comfortable in the spring months and in the fall than in mid-summer, when temperatures are sometimes so high that sickness and death result.

That Lowell soldiers will make a splendid appearance in the military maneuvers at Devens this year is assured. Company ranks are to be full as usual, for there is no tendency in this section of the state to let the national guard sink into "innocuous desuetude." The prompt response of able-bodied young men who joined the colors in Lowell recently in response to a ringing appeal for full quota by a new local military company of infantry, proves this Lowell is ready at any time to meet such a situation with promptness and despatch.

FIGHTING DIPHTHERIA

Probably the greatest health campaign ever waged in Greater Boston in the interests of children less than five years of age, began on Monday of the present week. It is a war against the dread diphtheria—one of little children's worst enemies. It is claimed now that the greatest mortality from this disease occurs among children in the first five-year period of life. Diphtheria prevention work has been very successful among children of school age thus far, and critics of old now admit it.

AND CANADA TOO

Dispatches from Winnipeg, Manitoba, indicate a growing sentiment in that part of Canada to restrict Japanese entries still further. Intimations that British Columbia members of parliament, striking out for the imposition of harsher restriction laws in order to combat a new influx of Japanese to Canadian soil from Oriental distributing points, were trying to persuade the minister of immigration to impose a $500 head tax on Japanese entering Canada, are probably without foundation.

That the Japanese immigration problem is becoming a matter of real political character as well as a dominion-at-large topic of debate, is a well known fact. Canadian people have for several years been aroused by the ease with which Japanese have entered the dominion, apparently without check. They have appeared recently in increasing numbers in the agricultural belts, as they have swept over large productive land areas in California.

Canadians in parliamentary circles are now resolved to ascertain the exact nature of the present agreement between Canada and Japan regarding immigration. Some of the immigration officers on the seaboard, admit that they are not equipped at any incoming point with authority enough to check the onward sweep of the Orientals to Canada.

Whether definite action will be taken to place Japanese on the same basis as Chinese, remains to be seen. The government evidently intends to consider a proposal further to greatly restrict Japanese immigration.

AT LOGGERSHEADS

New Hampshire and Massachusetts apparently love each other very much, with both states still maintaining rigidly restrictive automobile regulations that are roundly criticized by the morning public on both sides of the border.

It would seem better to have some sort of a reciprocal arrangement for automobilists who are only temporarily passing through a state. The trucking business in Massachusetts is said to be the worst sufferer, licenses in New Hampshire being required before a truck can cross the state line with a single load, even if that is to be the only load the truck will ever carry into New Hampshire.

Indignant interstate truckmen are wondering if the recent stringent legislation enacted in New Hampshire, making it extremely costly and sometimes unprofitable for Bay State truckmen to operate across the Granite state line on northern New England hauls, was inaugurated by the solons on the spur of the moment in a bid for more money for highway expenses. Some believe that railroad interests are back of the much criticized law that is now seriously checking motor truck freight service between the two states.

U. S. A. OPPORTUNITIES

The new opportunities abroad for investment of American capital, which would follow a repatriation settlement, will be welcomed, of course. These will be presented not only in Germany, but elsewhere, as preparation is made for an all-round development of trade between the nations.

With the productive equipment in this country already developed in many lines of enterprise beyond immediate requirements, American investors will look with increased confidence to other fields for profitable investment. Such investments should facilitate the gradual adjustment of American trade to the changing conditions abroad. At best, of course, the restoration of European countries can be effected only gradually.

If June will be a little kinder to one and all along toward the finals before the advent of July, we will think up something good to say about her. Thus far the "month of roses and sunshine" is down in the bottom drawer of the poet's classical archives, we understand.

Rheumatism hits in least expected places, its victims to encompass. Our sympathies to the belligerent Senator Reed of Missouri, who would be in New York city this week if able to make the journey. The doughty representative of a vigorous quality of American citizenship will be missed.

The name of a Lowell woman whose life work is devoted to the teaching, protection and advancement of children from the ranks of poverty, leads the list of those working without publicity to extend the compulsory school attendance age.

War with Japan couldn't happen just now. Witness the development of the baseball era in Japan, the Japs having an especially ecstatic season of it thus far this year, with myriads of players now uttering the hit-and-run sport of American diamond kings.

Chairman Hultman of the state special commission on necessities of life, has started to earn his new salary by spreading his annual appeal to "Beware!" He refers to empty coal bins.

SEEN AND HEARD

The biggest things in life are the small things.

Many a garden plot has ceased to be the land of promise.

It is hard to sing "Home, Sweet Home" in a rented house.

Since the first four years in supposed to form a child's character we can report there will be no wild man shortage.

A Thought
That destructive syren sloth is ever to be avoided.—Horne.

No Harm Done
As an express train was going through a station, one of the passengers leaned out of the window, overbalanced and fell out. He fortunately landed on a sand heap, so that he did himself no great injury; but, with torn clothes, he said to a porter: "What shall I do?" "You're all right, mister," said the porter; "your ticket allows you to break your journey."

Gentle Reminder
A visitor to a lunatic asylum was approached by an inmate, who begged that his hard case might be laid before a magistrate and his release obtained. The visitor promised to take the necessary steps immediately. "You will not forget?" said the inmate. "O, no." "You are sure you will not forget?" "Certainly not." As the visitor turned to go, he received a kick that laid him in a heap a few feet away. "That," said the inmate, "is in case you should forget."

Our Unexplored Country
One of the largest unexplored areas in the United States lies in a triangular space between the Colorado and the San Juan rivers in southwestern Utah. An expedition of the National Geographic society has begun a survey of the region, primarily to determine whether it was once generally inhabited by the ancient cliff-dwellers. The country consists mostly of canyons and sandstone cliffs and is of fantastic beauty. An area as large as some of the smaller eastern states still remains quite unknown to white men.—Youth's Companion.

Fish Eating Golf Greens
An unusual situation exists in Madison, according to George N. Mannfeld, chief of the game warden service of the Indiana department of conservation, who recently received a letter from golf enthusiasts explaining their predicament and asking advice. The letter explained that the golf links of the Madison Country club lie along the Ohio river and the recent heavy rains have caused the river to rise and flood the links. Members of the club wish permission to seine on the greens, asserting that schools of rainbow fish are eating the grass and ruining certain parts of the course. Mannfeld, of course, could not give them permission to seine, even under such unusual circumstances.—Indianapolis News.

A Surprised Johnnie
An Englishman, who knew no language but his own, had lost his way in Rome. In his perplexity it occurred to him to write the name of his hotel in large letters on his card, and hand it to the first benign-looking individual he met. An Italian, thus accosted, turned, and with the charming manners of his race, accompanied the perturbed Englishman for about 20 minutes in silence until they reached the hotel designated. Then the tourist poured out voluble thanks in the only language at his command. The Italian looked at him in amazement, and remarked in perfect English, "I thought you were deaf and dumb!"

Thrifty Jack
Jack McLeod, who loved nothing better than to sit beside a quiet pond, rod in hand, and wait for the fish to bite, had been absorbed in his favorite occupation from early in the morning until long past noon of a sultry summer day. A neighboring farmer, observing that the fisherman was enjoying apparently no luck at all, undertook to remind Jack that it was past the lunch hour. "You'll have missed your dinner completely, mon," he said, "and still have no fish. Why don't ye go home?" The fisherman spat solemnly at his line. "I have three worms left," he replied, "that I wouldn't let go to waste."—Everybody's Magazine.

His Descent
The pompous individual had just alighted from the bus at the corner of Threadneedle street, where the famous old lady of that name stands. When a stout old woman woman offered him the opportunity to carry a large basket of fruit for her, he was extremely annoyed and showed it. He shook his umbrella angrily and stamped his foot on the ground. "Woman!" he muttered and showed it. He shook his umbrella angrily and stamped his foot on the ground. MAN ABOUT TOWN

Among the happiest-looking individuals at the flag-raising ceremony in connection with the dedication of the new combination field and track at Alumni park last Saturday were the two oldest living male and female graduates of the high school, Mr. Edward M. Tucke of the class of 1885, and Elizabeth King Osgood of the class of 1849. Both appeared to thoroughly enjoy the festivities and stayed through the entire performance.

"Eddie" Morris, who did the announcing during the meet is the same Eddie who thrills thousands of football fans in the big Harvard stadium every fall. He is the possessor of a mighty loud voice which can be heard in every corner of the lot where he performs. After Saturday's affair here, Mr. Morris was the guest of Hon. Perry D. Thompson at the Co. C bivouac at the Dracut rifle range.

A Boston newspaper recently carried a story containing the name of James Heslin of Lowell. He was mentioned quite frequently in connection with the New England delegation to the democratic convention in New York. Although never a candidate for office himself, Jimmy has been an active political campaigner for several years.

Bathing beaches are popular these days. Took a ride to Gloucester last Sunday and, of course, passed through Salem, Beverly, Manchester and the other well-known resorts along the North shore. As it was really the first warm day of the year, the bathing spots were well patronized. Many Lowell people anticipating a dip in the briny at Lynn were disappointed, I understand, to find that the bath house there was not open to the public last Sunday.

loo? Threepence, woman, threepence? I have never been so insulted in my life. Do you know that I am descended from the Duke of Dalrymple? "O, I beg pardon, sir," slammed the old woman, thoroughly put out. "I thought you had descended from the Rayswater bus!"

Comparison
Edgar, a 14-year-old, had reached the awkward age. He was just outgrowing the largest knickerbocker trousers, his hands were large and he used them in a none-too-graceful manner. His feet were oversized and unmanageable. He went through the house slamming doors, whistling, and scuffling until the family was driven most to distraction. He happened to overhear his parents in conversation as to a suitable present. The next day he told a friend that he thought he knew what he was going to get. "A saxophone, I guess," he said. "What are they going to get you one of them for?" he was asked disdainfully. "Because they don't want me to make so much noise," was his innocent reply.—Indianapolis News.

Vacation
Vacation days are coming soon. From cares and labor free. Which some of us may find between The mountains and the sea. For in the joyous summer-time The weary worker seeks To find a place away from home Where he can spend two weeks.

Each has his special preference; Something appeals to each— The shadows of the mountains, or The girls upon the beach. Some want excitement all the time, To give their pleasure zest. While some are wholly satisfied To get away and rest.

Alas, for very few of us Are rich enough to seize The opportunities we have And go just where we please! Some lucky ones will see the sights In Paris or in Rome. And some will see America, But most will stay at home! —SOMERVILLE JOURNAL.

The TELEPHONE GIRL
Did you ever try sitting all day in one place and still try to keep up your nerve? It's something that brings to your system a trace of the something that makes patience swerve.
The sitting, alone, ought to be quite enough to make anybody go sour. But, think of the 'phone girl, whose duties are tough as she waits on us hour after hour.

In all of your life have you ever heard tell of a person just perfect—now truly? If you listened all day to the telephone bell it's a cinch that you'd too be unruly.
Remember that 'phone girls are human like you, and they'll answer to kindness, you'll find. So the next time you're buzzing a number or two, let that thought buzz around in your mind.

Simple Receiver Offers
Clarity and Distance

HOOKUP DIAGRAM OF HAYNES CIRCUIT

BY ISRAEL KLEIN

N.E.A. Service Radio Editor

If, instead of long distance records, clarity and selectivity is sought with a simple receiver, the Haynes circuit can fill the bill.

It is nothing more than a simple, three-circuit regenerative tuner, but it is so constructed that there is a minimum of loss or interference and a maximum of volume and clearness from a single tube.

Two parts of this circuit are important—the inductance and the variable condenser. For the inductance, a Haynes 150-decade bank-wound variocoupler has been found most efficient. Enough windings should be taken off the rotor to leave only 35 turns there, while four laps are taken off the first eight turns of the aerial side of the stator coil, a tap at every second turn.

The condenser, also a Haynes, has 23 plates and a capacity of not more than .00025 mfd. But any good make of condenser with similar capacity should do. Care should be taken, however, that it is a low-loss condenser.

Other Parts

Outside of these most important parts, the set consists of the following regular instruments:

One 6-ohm rheostat.

One grid leak, 2 megohms, and condenser, .00025 mfd.

One tube socket.

One switch, four switch points and two stops.

One open circuit jack, or a closed circuit jack if an amplifier is added.

Or, two phone binding posts.

Six other binding posts for aerial, ground and batteries.

A 7 by 15-inch panel, with corresponding cabinet.

Connecting bus wire.

Either a UV-200 or a WD-11 or WD-12 tube may be used.

How to Tune In

The operation is as simple as any other similar circuit. Put the switch knob on the point leading to the extreme end of the primary coil. Turn on the rheostat until a slight hiss is heard, then turn back until hiss disappears. With a dry battery tube, the filament should show a dull red glow.

With the tickler dial at zero, rotate the condenser until a station is heard. Then the tickler is turned to strengthen the signal. If the signal becomes weaker instead of stronger, reverse the tickler connections.

If some station happens to interfere, turn the switch lever to the second point and re-tune with condenser and tickler dials. But best reception will be obtained with the entire length of the primary coil.

turn the switch lever to the second point and re-tune with condenser and tickler dials. But best reception will be obtained with the entire length of the primary coil.

RADIO CONCERT BY THE QUINBY COMPANY

The W. S. Quinby company of Boston will present for the benefit of the radio-listeners of this district, their second radio concert from station WNAC, (278 meters) the Shepard Stores, Boston, on Sunday evening, June 29, at 8:30 o'clock, daylight saving time.

The first concert presented by this company, on April 27, was very well received throughout New England and many letters of commendation were received by them for their work in behalf of better broadcasts. The company's slogan is "You might as well have the best," and living up to this, the company has arranged a second program which brings together a group of artists of the first class.

The program follows:

Played by The Vannini Symphony Ensemble.

"Prologue from I Pagliacci" by Leoncavallo.

Sung by Mr. Ralph Tallib, baritone.

"Prelude to Lohengrin" by Wagner.

"Die Possente" from Faust, by Gounod.

Sung by Mr. Ralph Tallib, baritone.

"Minuet for Strings Only," by Bolzoni.

Played by members of The Vannini Symphony Ensemble.

"Vol Lo Sapeto O Mamma," from Cavalleria Rusticana by Mascagni.

Sung by Miss Louise Badaracco, soprano.

"Hungarian Rhapsody No. 2" by Liszt.

Played by The Vannini Symphony Ensemble.

SAOANS LISTEN IN

Natives of Samoa are preparing to listen in on speeches from the house of commons in London. They have already succeeded in receiving broadcast programs from New York over a distance of 7300 miles.

If a soft, bluish glow appears in the tubes the plate voltage is too high.

NOISES IN YOUR RECEIVER

Loose connections or badly soldered joints are the greatest causes of the exasperating noises you get in your phones.

If there is any corrosion in the joints, a scratchy noise results. If the prongs of the tubes do not fit properly, or they are corroded, it is another cause for scratchy noises.

Loose binding posts cause the same noise. Loose phone connections are another annoyance.

The remedy lies in tightening all binding posts and re-soldering all loose joints with the use of as little flux as possible.

Washington Senators Defeat Yanks and Hop From Third to First Place in Am. League

BASEBALL CAPITAL MOVES FROM HARLEM TO BANKS OF POTOMAC

First Time on Record That Washington Club Has Headed American League on June 25 or Later—Browns Take Twin Bill From Tigers—Red Sox Win

NEW YORK, June 25.—Washington, deprived of the politics by New York, retained with a brilliant coup which moved the baseball capital of the nation from the Harlem river to the banks of the Potomac.

The Senators gained a full lap on the racing field of the American league by beating New York 4 to 3 in 10 innings yesterday and jumped from third place to first. This is the first time the Washington club has headed Ben Johnson's circuit on June 25 or later. The bewildered Yankees, slumped three times within two days by the baseball politicians, managed to hold on to second as Detroit did a back dive from first to third by losing twice to the Browns, 7 to 5 and 5 to 1. Jacobson made two homers in the second game.

Boston, recent conqueror of first place, saved itself the ignominy of falling into a tie for sixth by beating Philadelphia 4 to 1. The Red Sox held first division berth by one point over St. Louis, which with Sisler back in the game, is only two games away from first and poised for a leap.

The ardor of the mad Indians, whose successful scalping of New York, Boston, Washington and Detroit, scrambled the league, was restrained by rain which kept them idle at Chicago.

Gotham's consolation in the sad situation lies in the minds who won their 10th straight game by adding Dizzy Vance, premier hurler of the two leagues, to their conquests and defeated Brooklyn, 8 to 3. The strike of the Giants took them another half game away from Chicago, which with St. Louis was not scheduled. McGraw's team now leads in the National by two and one-half games. Brooklyn holds third place by only one and one-half games over the long threatening Pirates, who beat Cincinnati, 4 to 3, although Enns Rixey did not allow a Corsair to reach first base until the sixth inning. The eighth inning, Boston defeated Philadelphia, 4 to 2, as North defeated Carlson in a pitcher's battle.

AL MELLO IN PARIS

Steamship America With 300 American Olympic Stars Arrives 'Over There'

CHERBOURG, June 25 (by the Associated Press).—The steamship America, bearing the United States Olympic team of more than 300 athletes, arrived today. The athletes, all in good condition, landed at 7:30 o'clock headed by Col. Robert M. Thomson, chairman of the American Olympic committee.

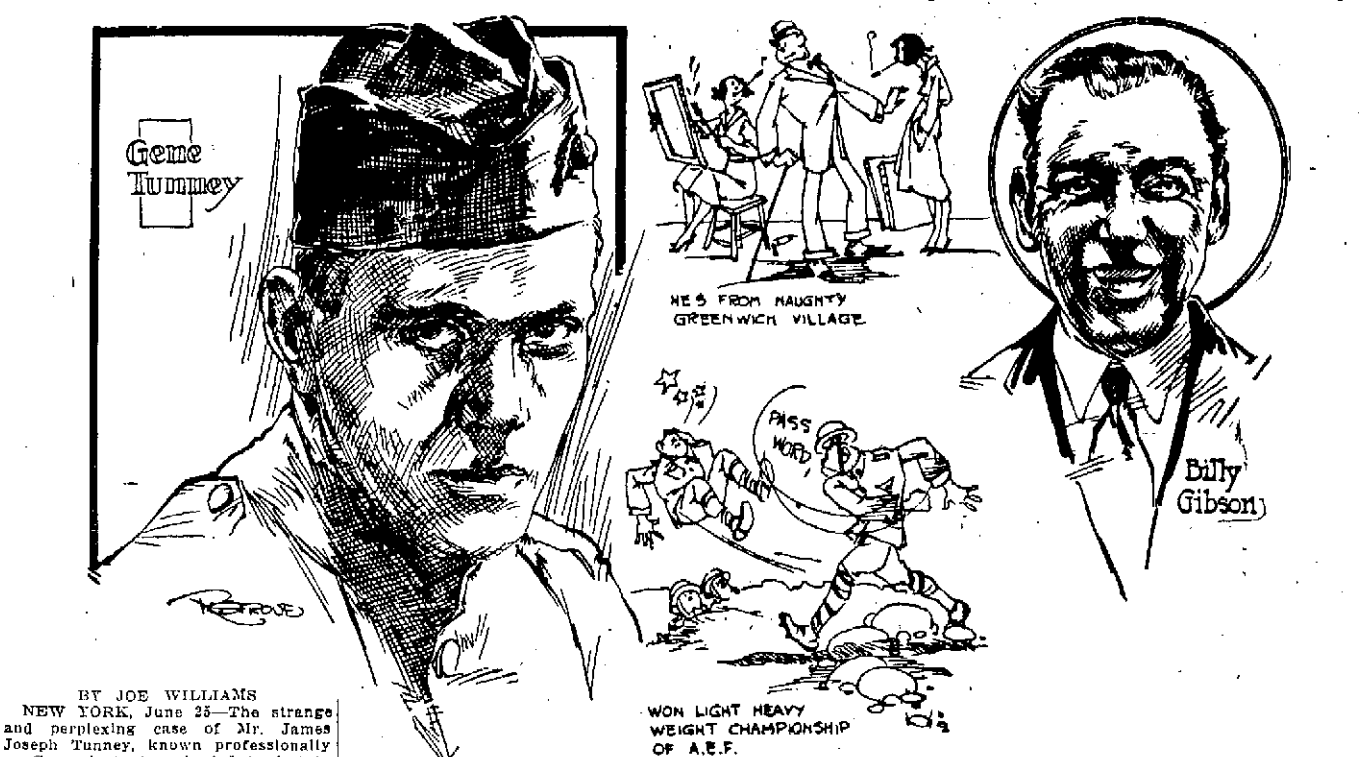

The crew of the America gave the team a rousing send-off as the tenders left the ship. The first demonstration from the French came as the athletes passed a harbor tug whose men went up a cheer, which was echoed by the invaders.

Crowds lined the wharf as the men landed, but the welcome was informal and mild. There were several American delegations present, including members of the American Olympic committee in Paris. Rear Admiral Philip Andrews welcomed the men on behalf of the American naval staff.

The Americans departed on two special trains amid enthusiasm shortly after 9 o'clock. They are due to arrive in Paris at 3:15 this afternoon.

Al Mello of Lowell, who holds the national amateur boxing championship at 147 pounds, is a member of the Olympic team which arrived in Paris today.

Bout With Carpentier at Least Will Give Fans Line on Real Ability of Gene Tunney

WON LIGHT HEAVY WEIGHT CHAMPIONSHIP OF A.B.F.

BY JOE WILLIAMS

NEW YORK, June 25.—The strange and perplexing case of Mr. James Joseph Tunney, known professionally as Gene, is to be wheeled back into the operating room for further clinical experiments.

Mr. Tunney, professing to be the light heavyweight champion of America, has signed to exchange punches, as the saying goes, with Georges Carpentier, celebrated French foot racer, here next month.

Nobody seems to be able to state with any degree of positiveness whether Mr. Tunney, a flaccid product of the A. E. F., is a first-class fighting unit or not.

We discussed his case with Martin Burke, champion heavyweight of the south, some days ago. Burke was brief and to the point.

"I think he's an awful tomato," he said.

Turned Along With Caution

Burke, however, may have been mildly prejudiced, since the remarks were made several hours after a fight in which he had taken a severe walloping from Tunney.

Tommy Gibbons is another fighting gentleman who can hardly keep a straight face when Tunney's name is mentioned.

"I'll say this for him, though, he uses beautiful English."

Gibbons, too, may be moderately puzzled. The St. Paul shamrock has been trying, unsuccessfully, for several seasons to get a shot at Tunney.

Much of the skepticism regarding Tunney's ability grew out of the extreme caution with which his manager, the shrewd Billy Gibson, engineered his matches. If the boys looked too tough, Mr. Tunney was kept far away from them.

With the exception of the two Greb bouts, Tunney hasn't faced a really high grade batter. In the first Greb bout, Tunney was beaten, in the second he was victorious. In neither did he look the part of a sensation.

Gibson, his manager, tells you Tunney is a greatly improved fighter and predicts he will beat Carpentier worse than Gibbons did at Michigan City.

Will Beat Carpentier

"I brought Tunney along slowly," says Gibson. "Just as I brought Benny Leonard along by easy stages, Tunney didn't look any worse in his fledgling days than Benny did. Finally Benny reached his real form and won the world's lightweight title before reaching his top-most ability. Today he is really a great fighter."

Mr. Gibson is, of course, not unlike the common run of fight managers, and one should not take his enthusiasm too seriously.

Tunney is a pretty fair fighter, but no world beater. He is fast and clever and these qualities ought to win for him over the decrepit Carpentier.

Tunney, however, has never been a great aggressive fighter. Taking chances is not his specialty. Carpentier can still fling a fairly hard straight right. Tunney may decide that discretion is eminently the better part of valor, and go into a shell.

If he does it will be a terrible fight to watch, for the French man proved in his marathon with Gibbons that he can retreat with the worst of them.

CITY TWILIGHT LEAGUE AMERICANS TO THE FORE

GAME THIS EVENING AT WIMBLEDON, ENG.

The Pawtucket A. A. and the Belmonts will come together in a City Twilight league game on the South common this evening. The Pawtuckets, with an exceptionally strong lineup, are leading the league with four games won and none lost. The team that puts a crimp in their winning streak will have something to talk about, as the Pawtuckets appear to have the class in every respect.

With "Chick" Tardiff performing better than at any time in his career, Manager Tommy Flynn isn't worrying about opponents.

The Belmonts on the other hand are no slouches. They have been playing a sweet brand of ball all season and make every team work hard to land a verdict. Manager Johnny Bell is of the opinion that his team will be the first to spoil the record of the Pawtuckets, and he intends to star right in this evening.

The City Twi schedule is being revised and will be ready for publication in the near future. The new schedule will go into effect on Monday, June 7, when four games will be played each week.

MANCHESTER TEAM DEFEAT SILESIA

At Manchester last evening, the Silesia team of North Chelmsford was defeated by Manchester, 8 to 7. The home team won in the eighth by pushing three runs across the platter. Manchester plays a return game with Silesia at North Chelmsford this evening.

LOWELL JUNIOR LEAGUE IS FORMED

A new league, which has been in the making for some time past, is just received permission from the park commission to use the North common every Monday, Tuesday and Friday evenings for twilight games. The league is to be known as the Lowell Junior Twilight League and will have the following teams represented: Emeralds, St. Joseph Cadets, Victorias, Pawtucket Blues, Iroquois and P.A.C.

These teams represent about the best material in the city in the 17-20-year-old class and all the coming contests should prove to be very interesting for the fans of the North End who intend taking them in.

The league will play its opening game next Monday, St. Joseph's Cadets and the Victorias being the rivals in the initial contest.

William J. Pettler, well known local jeweler, has offered a silver loving cup to be awarded the winners of the league. Mr. Pettler will officially open the league next Monday evening at 8:15 when he will pitch the first ball of this contest.

Games scheduled for the rest of the week are: Pawtucket Blues and P.A.C. on Tuesday, and Emeralds and Iroquois on Wednesday. This last game has been brought forward from Friday on account of the holiday.

All managers of the Junior league are requested to meet on the North common at 7 o'clock tomorrow evening.

The Chelmsford A. A. baseball nine bowed to its second defeat at the hands of the North Billerica T. R. & T. nine on the Chelmsford high school diamond last night, the score being 7 to 4. The Billerica lads came from behind twice to win the game and displayed a brand of ball that was far superior to that of their opponents. Both teams were far from good in the field, but the work with the willow was good.

GIRL BOWLER IN STAR ROLE

Bill Moylan, ex-high school second sacker, cracked out four singles in four trips to the plate for the Princeton A. A. in its Lowell Twilight league game on the South common last evening, and helped the Centralville aggregation to defeat Hogan's Centrals by a score of 3 to 0. Gus McKenzie twirled a brilliant brand of ball for the winners, letting the Centrals off with five clean hits.

Bill Moylan assumed the pitching responsibilities for the losers. Although asked for only six hits, the batters came in bunches and when they were on the paths. The Princetonians scored two of their runs in the fifth inning and one in the seventh. In the fifth, Moylan scratched one down the first base sector in the direction of right field. He went to second on the throw in and scored on Jimmy Cawley's single. This hit got away from DeRoehn in center field and the Princeton first sacker made home in safety. The final tally came in the Princeton's fourth when Andy Burns waited out four bad ones and was passed. He proceeded to second on McKenzie's sacrifice, and moved along on a single to the outfield.

McKenzie connected for his fourth consecutive clout, Burns registered.

Three-base hits were accredited to the Princeton in each of the seven innings. The Princetonians were giving their pitcher air-tight support, but one excusable misfire being recorded. The only time the Centrals really threat-

A. E. HOWARD FAVORED TO WIN CITY GOLF CHAMPIONSHIP

Shoots a Brilliant and Record-Breaking 69 at Mt. Pleasant and Has 12-Stroke Lead Over the Field—Third and Final Round at Vesper Club Next Tuesday

Unless Arnold E. Howard breaks a leg he ought to walk away with the 1924 city golf championship when the final round is played at the Vesper Country club next Tuesday.

Last night after the second round had been completed at Mt. Pleasant and he was sitting pretty with a clear 12-stroke lead over the man in second position, Howard was in a sensational and record-breaking round of 69 over the entire Highlands links yesterday afternoon. As was said in this paper yesterday, pars and birdies flock to Howard's clubs at Mt. Pleasant, and his mauls and approach shots were like fair winds at his bidding while he dashed around in 34 and 35 strokes for a less-than-70 total. Alex Hills, former pro at Mt. Pleasant, once played a practice round in 82, but never has it been accomplished in competition, so that the honor is Howard's.

Charlie Grassby, coming through with a 6 yesterday, moved into second place in the standing and Howard and Morion's well played 77 put him in third position, but both are trailing Howard by so many strokes that they are looking for a way to pull him from the throne at Vesper. That Arnold will not go so well over the longer and more difficult Vesper course is admitted, but he can afford to give away a stroke or two and still breeze into the possession of the cup. A 12-stroke advantage in this stage of the game is like getting a check from the fond parents when the last thin dime is tucked away in the corner of the trousers' pocket. He should take the cup like Grant took Richmond.

Yesterday's round produced better golf on the average than was shown at Longmeadow on the opening day of a week ago, which also was not unexpected, for it must be said that there is nothing very taxing or formidable about the Mt. Pleasant course. There is only one hole, the eighth, that cannot be traversed without exertion in a drive and an iron.

The boys who can stand up and slug 'em will be the ones to watch at Vesper next Tuesday, where the distances from tee to cup are long in many instances and where a flubbed shot exacts severe penalty. But, as we have said before, Howard should carry most of the bats.

Yesterday's score, the first round scores and totals to date follow:

Cobb's Discard Sensation in American Association

JOHNNY NEUN

Ty Cobb has planted a genuine star in the American Association. Some day—perhaps in the near future—the Georgia Peach will bring the youngster back from St. Paul and have him take Lou Blue's place at first base for the Tigers. We refer to Johnny Neun, the sensation of the association this year. He is the most talked of individual in the double A loop. Cobb loaned Neun to St. Paul this spring. All he has done for the Apostles thus far is to lead the league in batting, and in base stealing. He has a record of more than 20 pilfered sacks to date. At this rate, he promises to wind up the season with something like 100 stolen bases.

LOWELL WOMEN'S CLUB

Interesting Talk on State Institutions by Member of Visiting Staff

The final meeting of the Business and Professional Women's club of Lowell was held last evening in the Kimball school with President Mrs. Rose Jordan Hartford in the chair.

Miss Eleanor Rivet, recording secretary, read the minutes of the last meeting. Miss Mabelle Whitlock, treasurer, reported that the club showed a balance on hand of $10.05 with a total of 103 paid members and 12 possibilities.

K. K. K. FIGHT WITHIN OHIO DELEGATION

NEW YORK, June 25.—The Ku Klux Klan fight within the Ohio delegation to the democratic national convention died a natural death today, with the practical refusal of former Gov. James E. Campbell, delegation chairman, to call another caucus of the Blue Eagle delegates. At their caucus Monday, the Ohioans adopted a resolution offered by Edmund H. Moore of Youngstown, Ohio's new national committee chairman, instructing Newton D. Baker, the Ohio member of the resolutions committee, to offer an anti-Ku Klux Klan plank.

Declaring that they did not think such a plank advisable at this time, and that they had had no chance to vote against the Moore resolution in caucus, ten members of the Ohio delegation petitioned their chairman to call another caucus to rescind the Ku Klux Klan action.

Chairman Campbell was understood today to be of the opinion that his now too late to rescind the caucus action, inasmuch as the resolutions committee is now drafting a platform, and as the Moore anti-Klan plank already has been offered to the committee. It was reported that he would pigeon-hole the request for another caucus, without refusing definitely to call one.

This is the 70th year of the establishment of Tewksbury state infirmary. The institution's record down all the years, comprising nearly three-quarters of a century, is unsurpassed in the nation. Today, at the rally of members of the profession upon whom humanity chiefly depends in time of sickness and other human ills, the long and distinguished history of the Tewksbury infirmary was reviewed in comforting retrospect. Many medicines intimately familiar with the institution testified to the incalculable value of the work carried on there.

The meeting today called for formal inspections of all the infirmary hospital wards between 12 m. and 2 p. m. Luncheon was served to the medical guests and visitors in the hospital dining hall immediately afterward. In business sessions the reading of reports covering hospital work performed during the past year, also resume of previous meetings similar to the one conducted today.

Much of the material offered at the business meeting and survey, related to lifesaving efforts conducted unceasingly at the Tewksbury infirmary, in which many physicians and surgeons present at today's reunion have taken highly efficacious parts.

Supt. Nichols acted the genial, painstaking host on the tour of the infirmary wards, explaining the work being done in each ward and responding to questions. New programs have been installed in some hospital departments, as outlined in The Sun's recent survey of the modern departures that have taken place in the great Tewksbury lifesaving institution within the past 18 months.

BIG DECREASE IN PASSENGER REVENUE

The decrease in passenger revenue on the local division of the street railway company has reached alarming proportions within the last few days and company officials cannot foresee any improvement until the fall.

Passenger revenue for the first 23 days of June this year, as compared with a like period last year, decreased $15,100. For the first 15 days of this month the decrease was $11,000, making the average decrease for eight days ending the 23rd approximately $590.

With the closing of the public schools today, the company will lose $300 revenue daily, that amount representing fares paid daily by pupils on their way to and from school. It is hoped, however, that this decrease will be made up by the increase of fares on the lines running to summer amusement places.

The street railway service has been cut as much as possible without necessitating a rearrangement of schedules, said Manager McCormick this morning, and the company has no desire at the present time to revamp its operating schedule.

Owing to the closing of the Billerica schools, a slight rearrangement of schedules was necessary and operators of the local division are today bidding on runs for the remainder of the summer from the rearranged schedule.

How Well Dressed Dogs Will Look

"JENNY," ARISTOCRATIC DOG, ALL DRESSED UP FOR THE OLYMPIC GAMES

BY M. THERESE BONNEY,
N.E.A. Service Writer

PARIS, June 24.—Fashion writers have neglected to tell us what Fido and Betty are wearing this summer. And that is mighty important. The chic woman's dog, you know, must be dressed the part. But here is the information:

For the morning stroll in the Bois de Boulogne, Fashion dictates Fido and Betty must wear charming little checked coats of Rodier Kasha. And each has a hip pocket for a checked taffeta kerchief.

At lunch at Ciro's, a dainty little white leather collar with hand-painted strawberries must be worn.

Motoring after lunch requires sand-color broadcloth coat with Buster Brown collar, the edge of which, as well as the pocket in the jacket is embroidered in blue, green and red. With it a linen handkerchief, with lace trimmings, must be used.

And there should be at least one sport outfit for the Olympic games, sweaters, the color naturally depending on whether the wearer is a Belgian Griffon, a French Bull or a Sealyham. Dogs like men must show their race.

So after all, the American mongrel can thank his lucky stars he is not like his blue-blooded brethren of France.

When summer comes, he can get by anywhere in his birthday clothes.

BRILLIANT ADDRESS

Rev. Percy E. Thomas Speaks To Rotarians on "America's Greatest Problem"

Makes Stirring Plea For Mutual Respect One For the Other

One of the most brilliant addresses ever delivered before Lowell Rotarians was given at the noon-day meeting yesterday by Rev. Percy E. Thomas, pastor of the First Congregational church. It was a discussion of the problem of assimilation of the many heterogeneous groups which make up our citizenry and a plea for mutual respect one for the other as the only solution to the problems which beset us today.

It was an address that could not fail to hit the mark and was embellished with all the brilliance of the speaker's oratorical ability. A master of diction and expression, Mr. Thomas held his audience enthralled and the reception accorded him at the close was the most spontaneous and prolonged ever remembered at the club.

Rev. Mr. Thomas announced as his topic, "America's Greatest Problem," adding that it is not the perplexing question of prohibition, but calling it rather the problem of living together peacefully in spite of our many differences of thought and race.

He called attention to the great heterogeneous makeup of the nation's population. "We have a great problem of social differences," he said, "and the peculiar thing about it is that Americans always feel that they can climb from poverty to riches and wealth and the result of this belief is that more social differences arise than in any other country in the world."

"We in America are of a snap-trigger makeup, and constitution and we 'blow up' easily with this peculiar temperament. The old American temperament was more solid and moderate than the generation of today and unless we realize this new temperament, the solution of our social and economic problems is far ahead."

"The first thing we must do is to eradicate our differences, some say, but this is going to be an awfully hard thing to do. To wipe out racial differences is an absolute impossibility, for you cannot kill a man's love for his native land and the teachings of his childhood."

Rev. Mr. Thomas used the illustration of Russia's attempt at eradication and the collapse of Karl Marx's theory to show the futility of attempting to do away with social differences.

He spoke at some length on the differences in religious belief in America and finally said that present lines of creed never will be eradicated and should not be.

Rev. Mr. Thomas, speaking upon the thought of intensifying our nationality, discussed the senate's action in regard to the Japanese immigration expulsion act and said the unfortunate manner in which the matter was handled is going to take a lot of very careful handling "to unscramble the egg that has just been scrambled."

"The process of extinction and intensification have failed," he declared, "and there is left the only solution to our problem, mutual respect, one for the other. Emotionally we are all the same, no matter what our color, our nationality or our creed. That is the only way we are going to settle these problems which beset us today. There are 115 million of us in our America. God has put us here to work out the great drama of life. From north, east, south and west they have come, from the far-flung borders of the earth, the great melting pot to live as brothers."

"This theory of mutual respect one for the other hasn't a chance to succeed anywhere on this earth except in our own America. It cannot be accomplished in sedate and moderate old England, it cannot be done in Russia, there is no chance for it in the old kingdoms of Asia, but it can be worked out here."

"Where the sky is filled with sunlight and the flag is filled with stars."

Hartford, Conn., motorists have formed an anti-noise league.

SAFETY COUNCIL HEAD LIONS CLUB SPEAKER

Lewis E. MacBrayne, director of the Massachusetts Safety council, was the principal speaker at yesterday's meeting of the Lions club. The meeting was held at noon in Y.M.C.A. hall, and preceding the main address a short business meeting was held, with President Dr. G. Forrest Martin in the chair.

In his opening remarks, Mr. MacBrayne told briefly of the work of the safety council in the past in teaching automobilists and pedestrians how to avoid accidents.

"It is the age of slogans," he said, "and we are doing our work in various cities throughout the state with slogans as the things which draw the public eye. Two are especially good, 'S.O.S.' safety or sorrow, and 'A.B.C.' always be careful."

Mr. MacBrayne dwelt mainly on the phase of automobile accidents, although he said up to a few years ago the council dwelt mainly on industrial accidents. "This is a very serious problem," he continued, "for autos kill and maim thousands yearly—if the number was presented in a group it would be staggering."

One of the greatest steps to the prevention of accidents, he said, was the making of a rule requiring all applicants for auto drivers' licenses to take an examination. Of the first 37,000 examined, he said, over 20,000 were rejected. Other methods of accident prevention, including publicity, street regulations, etc., were explained by the speaker who cited cases of cities and towns where the safety committee had taken charge and greatly reduced the number of accidents.

In conclusion, he said, the drunken driver is the worst menace of the road, and he commended Registrar Goodwin of the highway department for revoking the licenses of such drivers by the hundreds monthly. In closing, he urged the club members to co-operate with the police, the registrar and other state officials.

Jack Daw's Adventures. Chapter 4

Jack immediately grabbed Flip and held him while the cook climbed down off the table. When the dog saw that the cook was friendly he slunk down on the floor. Then Jack asked if there was a piece of meat that he could give Flip. And shortly the cook brought some meat forth.

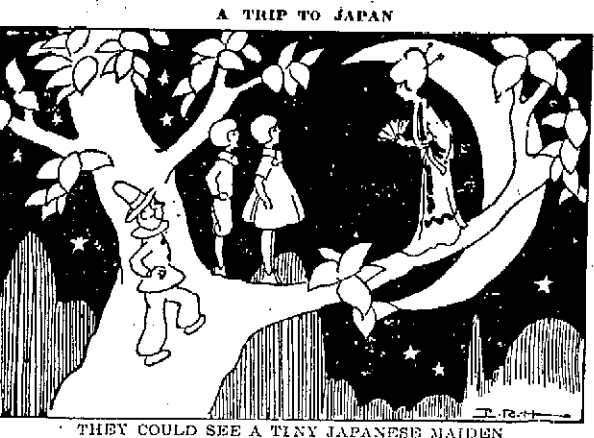

"To understand you are going to make this next sailing trip with us," said the cook to Jack. "You bet I am," replied the little adventurer. "Well," continued the cook, "we might as well get acquainted. My name is Paddy." And, with that, he and Jack shook hands.

"Are you hungry?" asked Paddy. "Well," replied Jack, "I might eat a sandwich, if you've got one." But before the sandwich was prepared Flip suddenly jumped up and darted through the kitchen door, close on the heels of a black cat that had suddenly appeared. (Continued.)

ADVENTURES OF THE TWINS

THEY COULD SEE A TINY JAPANESE MAIDEN

"Tira loo, tira loo, tira loo!" called Johnny Jump Up softly. "Wake up, Nancy and Nick, and come and get your magic shoes. We are going on another adventure."

"Where to?" asked Nick excitedly, hopping out of bed and starting to put on his clothes.

"You'll find out, you'll find out, you'll find out!" sang Johnny Jump Up, dancing about on the window-sill in the moonlight.

Nancy was dressed first and put on the tiny shoes the fairy handed to her. But Nick was only a second behind her, so eager was he to be off.

And oh, how tiny they became the instant the magic shoes touched their feet. So little that a lightning bug passing by called out, "Good evening, beetles, how did you get away up here?"

One, two, three, four, five! In just as long a time as it takes to count that many, they were down the well and standing in the magic garden where the stiff yellow infundibulums stood like fairy lamp-posts, and the blue bells were tinkling.

"Come with me," cried Johnny Jump Up.

Up and bounding over to a cherry tree covered with blossoms, he began to climb toward the branches.

Up went the Twins after him.

And there by the light of the moon they could see a tiny Japanese maiden no bigger than a hummingbird.

She had on a little straight dress of bright silk, embroidered in colored flowers, and a wide sash that tied in a big bow behind. Her black hair was piled up high on her head and stuck full of little fans and she carried a paper parasol.

"Oh, are you a fairy?" cried Nancy. "Yes," nodded the tiny maiden. "A Japanese fairy from far Japan. It is a lovely place on the other side of the world and that is where Johnny Jump Up is going to take you tonight. I brought three tickets for you."

"All rightie, if you say so," said Johnny Jump Up, turning a somersault. "Have you seen the titmouse anywhere? We can't go unless he takes us."

"Oh, I'm here!" called a sleepy voice. "I've been waiting ever since the sun went down. Every other self-respecting bird was in bed hours ago. All I got was forty winks and I never can get rested under fifty."

"You can sleep when you get back, lazybones," chirped Johnny Jump Up merrily. "Hop on, Nancy! Hop on, Nick!" And giving a little jump, the fairy man hopped on, too.

Away flew the titmouse and they all waived good-bye to the little Japanese fairy in the cherry tree.

After crossing a very wide ocean, they came to Japan. The sun was shining because, being on the other side of the world, it was day.

"Oh, Japan's all pink!" cried Nancy, looking down from her place on the bird's back.

"It is now for their cherry blossoms are out and they are pink instead of white, as ours are," said the fairy.

Just then the titmouse yawned. "I think we'd better be going home," he said. "I want my other ten winks of sleep."

waived good-bye to the little Japanese fairy in the cherry tree.

After crossing a very wide ocean, they came to Japan. The sun was shining because, being on the other side of the world, it was day.

"Oh, Japan's all pink!" cried Nancy, looking down from her place on the bird's back.

"It is now for their cherry blossoms are out and they are pink instead of white, as ours are," said the fairy.

Just then the titmouse yawned. "I think we'd better be going home," he said. "I want my other ten winks of sleep."

The funeral, largely attended by local and out-of-town relatives and friends, took place from the home of deceased, 14 Huntington street, the long cortege, headed by two open barouches of flowers, directing its way to the Immaculate Conception church, where a solemn high mass of requiem was sung at 10 o'clock by Rev. Owen P. McQuaid, O.M.I., assisted by Rev. Martin E. Norton, O.M.I., as deacon, and Rev. William W. Noonan, O.M.I., D.C.L., as sub-deacon. Seated in the Continued to Page Three

A FEW MILD WORDS ABOUT THE WEATHER

A rapidly darkening sky early this afternoon gave promise of showers and relief from the intensive heat of the forenoon, with its attending high degree of humidity, which sent the mercury up to 84 at 1 o'clock.

Before 2 o'clock there was a light sprinkle, followed by the rumbling of thunder after which the heavens loosed a downpour of rain that drove everyone to shelter. There was the usual noticeable atmospheric clearing, and improvement as to humidity, and when the sun did break through the clouds in mid-forenoon the heat became even more oppressive. It developed into the kind of day when heat prostrations might be expected, but none was reported at the ambulance stations.

As was the case yesterday, the downtown streets held no crowds of shoppers and business went along unobscuredly.

New York District Attorney Directed to Appear Before Federal Judge Knox

NEW YORK, June 25.—(By the Associated Press)—An order was served on District Attorney Hayward today, directing him to appear before Federal Judge Knox at 2 o'clock this afternoon and show cause why he should not seize all liquors on the Cunard Liner Berengaria, scheduled to sail for England later today.

The order, issued at the request of Captain John F. Milliken, secretary-treasurer of the Neptune Association of Master and Mates, was said to be the first step toward a case designed to test the validity of the recent liquor treaty with Great Britain.

Walsh Says Honor of Country Demands Return to Ideals of Woodrow Wilson

White Dove Appears in Convention Hall During Second Wilson Demonstration

MADISON SQUARE GARDEN, June 25.—The democratic convention today perfected its organization, gave a rousing reception to its permanent chairman, Senator Walsh, of Montana, and then moved swiftly along to the first stage of its fight over the presidential nomination. Amid floor demonstrations that forecast the restlessness of the coming struggle, the names of the first of the score of presidential candidates were placed formally before the convention.

Voting on a nominee will not begin, however, until the convention has adopted its platform which today was taking shape in a sub-committee.

Alabama, standing at the head of the roll call, presented Senator Underwood as the first of those to be placed before the delegates for the presidency.

The convention displayed no more interest in the first nominating speech than it generally does to any, until Mr. Johnson got along to the point where he began to make references to the Ku Klux Klan issue. Then the convention began to sit up and take notice. He drew the first prolonged applause when he referred to the historic action of the party with regard to the "know nothing" movement of years ago.

Once during the course of his address when Mr. Johnson brought the convention into a demonstration by the most direct reference to the delegates stood up and cheered and the other half remained silently in their seats.

It was noticeable that most all the delegates from Georgia, Missouri, Iowa, Texas, Oklahoma and California remained seated while the demonstration was going on.

First Fight Over Klan

There was a lively scramble around the Missouri standard, John Keegan of St. Louis, Smith delegate, amid the protests of nearly all the delegation, raised the state standard and several women rushed to take it away from him. It finally was forced back into position by Frank H. Harris of Rolla, Mo., one of the delegates at large.

Mrs. Milford Riggs, an elderly lady, planted herself at the standard, determined to hold it in position and keep it there.

GARDEN THROWN INTO CHAOS DURING ANTI-KLAN DEMONSTRATION

MADISON SQUARE GARDEN, June 25.—Amid scenes almost without parallel in party history, the democratic convention today began its grapple with the two great issues before it—the nomination of a presidential candidate and determination of the party's attitude toward the Ku Klux Klan.

Scarcely had the nominating speeches for president begun when the vast hall was thrown into chaos by a prolonged demonstration provoked by a reference to the positive stand against the klan taken by Senator Underwood of Alabama.

WASHINGTON, June 25.—Fifty or more of the principal oil companies of the United States were attacked in anti-trust proceedings instituted by the government today in the federal court at Chicago.

Attorney General Stone asked an injunction to restrain the companies from further violation of the Sherman act which he charged against them.

The complaint charged a combination and conspiracy in restraint of trade, and commerce among the states.

3 MEN AND GIRL HELD IN WOMAN'S DEATH

GROVETON, N. H., June 25.—An autopsy performed today on the body of Mrs. Kathleen Warren, found partly clad in the Ammonoosuc river yesterday, by Medical Referee Noyes of Colebrook and another physician, disclosed according to their report that death was due to drowning, although a congestion of the brain had been caused by either a blow or by striking a rock in the river after death.

Three men and a girl, said to have been companions of Mrs. Warren when she disappeared a week ago, were arrested yesterday in Berlin as suspicious persons and were brought there today for examination.

TEN LAWRENCE MEN HEARD BY U. S. COMMISSIONER WALSH

Defendants Were Charged With Resisting and Opposing Federal Enforcement Agents—Illegal Possession of Beer Also Charged—Cases Continued Until July 8

Ten Lawrence men were arrested by U. S. Marshal Hart this forenoon and were taken before United States Commissioner Richard B. Walsh at the Gorham street court house, charged with resisting and opposing federal enforcement agents in the service of a search warrant and with destroying beer with an intent to prevent its seizure.

One of the number, Antonio Sylvestro, also is charged with the illegal possession of beer. Those specifically charged with resisting, opposing and destroying are R. Sylvestro, Nick Ruggiero, Joseph Valliere, Lawrence Orrelli, Anthony D'Agostino, Antonio Viglione, Alfonso Cameo, Samuel Volatino and Joseph Brocato. On a finding of guilty the maximum penalty is $2000 or a year in jail, or both.

The persons inside refused to open the door, Agent Sullivan declares and the officers were forced to break in through windows. They had heard the breaking of glass and when inside found, they allege, that 150 cases of beer had been destroyed. A total of 250 cases were found intact. The men named in the complaints were taken in while attempting to escape from the barn, it is alleged.

NOMINATING SPEECHES MADE AT DEMOCRATIC CONVENTION

Forney Johnson, Urges Anti-Klan Plank in Placing Underwood in Nomination—Ex-Gov. Brough Names Robinson, Phelan Nominates McAdoo

NEW YORK, June 25.—The demand of Senator Oscar W. Underwood of Alabama, that the democratic national convention condemn by name the political activities of the Ku Klux Klan was voted to the convention today by Forney Johnson of Alabama as the keynote of his speech placing Mr. Underwood's name before the convention for the presidential nomination.

"No bare reference to the constitution or the bill of rights, actually mentioned in the Klan oath, is adequate in this connection," Mr. Johnson declared. "The bills of rights are limitations only upon the state and federal governments and not upon private conspiracy. That is why the candidacy of any people has insisted upon plain words."

"The question before this party, is whether secret organizations shall be given powers immune from the bill of rights and superior to those delegated to the elected representatives of the people."

"Above all does the candidate we represent condemn the massed action of secret political orders in furtherance of any objective which is plainly contrary to the spirit of the constitution."

In order to express squarely his opinion on this grave question I have, at his request, introduced a resolution reciting the established position of our party on that precise issue, referring to the resolution of 1856, and concluding with this resolving clause: "Resolved: That we do affirm the principles set forth in the said resolution of the democratic platform of 1856 and condemn as un-American and undemocratic political action by secret or quasi secret organizations in furtherance of any political objective whatsoever; and in particular do we condemn the Ku Klux Klan."

LOWELL MADE AMMUNITION USED BY WINNERS AT OLYMPICS

United States Cartridge Company Advised by Cable of Results in World Events—Scores of Rifles Are Near Perfect—Cartridges Were Made Here

Cable advices received this afternoon at the plant here of the United States Cartridge company advised local officials that winners of all first places in rifle firing at the Olympic games in France used ammunition made at the Lawrence street plant and known as .22 calibre, National Rifle association ammunition.

Conquellin de Lisle of France won the individual open championship with a score of 355 out of a possible 400, second place being won by Private Marcus Dinwiddie of the National Guard of the District of Columbia, a 17-year-old lad. He made 338, only four points less than a possible. In the women's events the winners also used ammunition made at the Lawrence street plant.

William J. Robinson, superintendent of the plant, in speaking of the victories with a report: of The Sun this afternoon stated that there is the greatest feeling of jubilation among all attaches of the Cartridge company that their ammunition should be selected by champions and that it should give the satisfaction which the scores give ample and indisputable evidence of.

"Naturally we regret that it was not an American that won first place in the championship firing," said Mr. Robinson. "However, we are gratified that the quality of our products recommended itself to the marksmen of other nations and that performance added the great endorsement to the selection."

The marks made in the individual open championships shatter all world's records. The score of Private Dinwiddie, the American who finished second to M. de Lisle, shattered all existing marks in rifle firing and the shooting of M. de Lisle set a new mark which many believe will remain unthreatened for years to come.

ground that premature publication of the plank might embarrass the committee in its deliberations. Other committeemen took a different view and finally it was decided on motion of Senator King of Utah, to permit the plank to be published at this time.

Discussion of this proposal, labor planks and other questions in public sessions delayed the committee in getting down to the actual work of platform drafting. This will be started later in the day, with prospects of long sessions. The K.K.K. and prohibition entered into discussion again and committeemen conceded that open threats of a convention floor fight on the issue had complicated their work.

KHAKI UNIFORMS FOR TRAFFIC OFFICERS

Police Chief Thomas R. Atkinson, in an interview with a Sun representative this morning, expressed himself as in favor of light khaki uniforms for members of the traffic squad for summer wear but added that the department is not in a position to furnish such uniforms as its appropriation is none too large to pay the regular expenses of the year.

Since the advent of the heat wave, several members of the traffic squad have agitated that they be furnished uniforms somewhat similar to those worn by Boston traffic officers, which are light-weight khaki cut on military lines, as the blue uniforms worn at present are "burdensome."

After expressing his opinion in the matter, Chief Atkinson said he would approve the khaki uniforms for the traffic squad if the members decided to purchase such uniforms for themselves for he admits the blue uniforms are not cool and that the traffic officers especially are exposed to the direct rays of the sun during the hottest part of the day.

LOWELL MAN HELD FOR THE FEDERAL COURT

After a hearing begun last Friday and finished today before U. S. Commissioner R. B. Walsh, probable cause was found in the case of George Bluke of this city, charged with the illegal sale of intoxicating liquor and he was held over in $500 for the federal court.

Several points of law were brought up and argued before the commissioner by Atty. George F. Toyn, and Bluke also was called to the stand to testify in his own behalf. He denied ever having sold a drink to Federal Agent Bowditch as the latter had testified. The government's case was conducted by Asst. U. S. Dist. Atty. William J. White, Jr.

Ugolino Solacra of Lawrence pleaded guilty to a charge of possessing 48 cases of beer and was held in $500 for the federal court.

the several states and with foreign nations in gasoline, kerosene and other hydro-carbon products, or generally all petroleum derivatives.

Nearly all of the important companies, including all of the Standard companies, were cited. The attorney general charged them with having combined to control the production of gasoline by a pooling of asserted patent rights in violation of the anti-trust act, naming as the primary defendants the Standard Oil companies of Indiana and New Jersey, and the Standard Development Co., the Texas Co., and the Gasoline Products Co.

The action constituted one of the most sweeping anti-trust moves on the part of the government in many years. Besides the principals the attorney general named as parties a number of "secondary" defendants, whom he charged were in combination as a result of accepting licenses from one or more of the primary defendants.

The meeting of the Lowell Driving club held last night was given over largely to perfecting plans for the big races that are to be held at the Golden Cove track on the afternoon of the Fourth of July. The report of the track committee was an excellent one, showing that the track with its new covering of loam is in the best condition today that it has ever been in. With the list of fast horses that are expected to enter those in charge believe that one of the greatest racing seasons ever seen at the local track will be staged for the horse racing fans on the holiday afternoon.

Three classes have been advertised for a total of $700 dollars in purses, and it is expected that a special race of considerable interest may be announced in a very few days that will add to the gaiety of the nation.

The committee in charge of the annual fair also had some encouraging reports to make, indicating that when the second week in September rolls around, Lowell people may have the privilege of enjoying a good, clean, agricultural exhibit that shall be a credit to all concerned, without going farther than Golden Cove park. While the initial effort of last year was not the best owing to lack of preparation and its being staged too early, these matters are to be eliminated this year, the committee being already at work and the fair slated for two weeks later than the date last year.

Waits 52 Years for Varsity Letter He Won at Amherst

By N.E.A. Service
TUONSON, Ariz., June 25.—Fifty-two years in getting a varsity letter, which he won by being a member of a college crew in 1872, is the record of Rev. Arthur Jared Benedict of Cochise Stronghold, Ariz.
He rowed No. 2 on the Amherst crew which made a record of 18 minutes 32 4-5 seconds for three miles at Springfield, Mass., that still stands as a world's record for six-oared boats.
The crews which trailed Amherst that year were Harvard, Massachusetts Aggies, Yale, Bowdoin and Williams.
Life picked the Reverend Benedict up by the nape of the neck 25 years ago and removed him from his staid New England parish at Housatonic, Mass., to Tombstone, Ariz. He came for his wife's health at a time when two-gun toters made life inordinately precarious for a tenderfoot.
But he had been born in the same town as P. T. Barnum, and so, as he said, had been kidded by experts.
When he rowed in the Amherst crew he was 23 years old, 5 feet 3 3/4 inches tall and weighed 145 pounds. Today, he is 75 years old, 5 feet 8 inches tall and weighs 150 pounds.
In the great Springfield race, which his crew won, Bob Cook, who has been famous for a generation as a captain and amateur coach of Yale, rowed bow in the Yale shell. Yale finished two minutes behind the Amherst crew.
Also in that race were Richard H. Dana, son of the author of "Two Years Before the Mast," who rowed bow in the Harvard boat, and Dr. S. A. Sargent, later famous as physical director of Harvard, who sat in the Bowdoin shell.
The Reverend Benedict's brother, John, was No. 1 in the Massachusetts Aggie crew that year and had also rowed in the Springfield regatta the year before.

REVEREND BENEDICT WEARING THE "A" HE WAITED 52 YEARS FOR.

Benedict is the sole surviving member of that Amherst crew, but from the appearance of him he is still an excellent insurance risk, even if he did have a stroke of paralysis two years ago that floored him for a while.
In these days when young whelks get varsity letters almost for playing tiddledywinks, a letter may not mean very much, but to Benedict, who got his "A" after 52 years, it represents a price that cannot be measured in terms of money.
Benedict rises to ask those who would make little of Amherst's feat,

THE RECORD-BREAKING AMHERST CREW OF 1872, WITH REVEREND BENEDICT, GRIPPING CHAIR, AT THE RIGHT.

how many athletic records have stood for 50 years?
To give the Ivy might go a little further and ask how many athletes who made records 50 years ago are still alive to ask such a question?

ITEMS OF INTEREST IN WALL STREET

NEW YORK, June 25.—Financial interests are reported to be buying preferred and common shares at St. Louis Southwestern, one of the first rail issues to move up in yesterday's early trading on the stock exchange. Holding the view, it was said that the issues fell out of line with other railroad stocks showing similar earnings records, and that the poor dividend record must be overlooked in part to give proper appraisal to the value of the property. Consolidation gossip, temporarily discouraged by the Southern Pacific purchase of the El Paso and Southern, also shows signs of revival.

Not operating income of the Chicago, Great Western Railroad, in the first five months of 1924 dropped to $498,673 from $732,967 in the same period of 1923. Net income for May fell to $25,516, compared with $140,122 in May last year.

In addition to the Missouri Pacific $2,000,000 three year 5 per cent secured notes at 99 1/4 to yield 5.27 per cent to maturity, other new offerings today included $4,500,000 Kentucky utilities company first mortgage lien 6 per cent gold bonds due 1949, at 98 and interest to yield more than 6.50 per cent.

In Freak Cloudbursts

Nature was seen in its angriest mood in a series of phenomenal cloudbursts near Johnson City, Tenn. Four separate torrents raged down Iron Mountain, cutting great holes in its sides, sweeping boulders and trees in its path. The paths cut in the mountain are shown in this photograph. Then it dashed through 20 miles of Carter county, carrying stores, homes and railroad tracks along with it. A dozen persons were killed and scores of families were forced to flee for their lives.

A 20-foot gully was cut through acre after acre of farm land. Near the center can be seen a bush to which Walter Lewis, 7, clung, as he pulled his older brother, Charles, 12, up on the bank. They were compelled to remain there until aid reached them. They and their father, Cecil Lewis, were the only members of a family of nine to escape death.

This is all that remains of a concrete bridge near Elizabethton, Tenn., in the heart of the Carter county cloudburst zone, after the torrents had passed away.

SAYS CONVENTION CALLED TO SELECT NEXT PRESIDENT OF UNITED STATES

SEN. THOMAS J. WALSH OF MONTANA, PERMANENT CHAIRMAN

Chairman Walsh Says Opportunity is Before Delegates to Choose Leader Who Will Carry Party to Victory in November—Glowing Tribute to Wilson

MADISON SQUARE GARDEN, New York, June 25.—(By the Associated Press) Hon. Thomas J. Walsh, U. S. senator from Montana, in delivering his speech as permanent chairman of the convention, said:

Judge not of my gratitude nor of the depth of my appreciation of the honor you do me by the brevity of my acknowledgment, if I say simply, I thank you. Both are profound.

I am your servant, called to aid you in the discharge of the grave tasks with which you have been entrusted to expedite the business you have in mind, to see that it proceeds in such orderly fashion as is essential to due deliberation and a fair hearing for every cause. I am powerless without your co-operation to these ends. That it will be given in unstinted measure I entertain no doubt. The momentous character of this occasion is universally recognized. The eyes of the world are upon us.

We are assembled in this great city, the metropolis of our country, as the representatives of one of its historic political parties to select their next president of the United States. True, our choice must be ratified in due form, but guided in our deliberations by the Spirit of Wisdom invoked in prayer the event is not uncertain. The opportunity is before us. The duty, the responsibility, is ours. The nation expects, yea demands, of us, a leader who exemplifies the principles of government associated with the name of Thomas Jefferson, a leader whose heart is attuned to the pulsations of those who labor on the farm and in the mill, and in the household, who heeds the cry of all the people for a larger life, rather than the plea of the few, the favorites of fortune, who are eager to exploit their fellows; a leader who has the vision to divine and the courage to pursue the paths to which national honor points and that lead to national, as distinguished from exceptional, prosperity.

Pays Tribute to Wilson

Such a leader our party lately gave to the nation to guide its course and direct its energies in the greatest crisis that ever rocked the globe. By sheer force of his intellectual supremacy among the statesmen of the world, he assumed, by common consent, the primacy and, holding it, gave to the country, in whose name he spoke, a place in the family of nations never before attained. He challenged attention to the lofty ideals of America in a manner never equaled and met with a response no generous as that for all time her sons will be thrilled at the story of his exposition of them. In so far as he failed to secure their acceptance as the ruling principles in international relations, his countrymen who derided his efforts and undermined his influence must bear the blame. Note the bitter fruits of their triumph. Proclaiming that selfishness was the only constant or controlling factor in intercourse between governments and duplicity ever to be apprehended, the view found ready acceptance that ideals in any governmental affairs are only the vain hope of the visionary.

"Back to normalcy" meant back to the methods and practices of a day that was dead, of a generation ago, when Hanna ruled and Aldrich legislated, when the senate was a millionaire's club, doing the bidding of the "invisible government." In an atmosphere tainted with such mischievous views, Newberry readily aspired to a seat in the upper house of congress to be achieved by the lavish and corrupt expenditure of his great wealth, and in the general let down in the moral tone met with a temporary success.

Every predatory interest foregathered to restore to power the protagonists of a venal and discarded theory of government, and having accomplished that end, they or their representatives, swarmed about the president-elect and the purloins of the capitol, each seeking to promote his own individual selfish project or purpose. It was easy to pass from the idea expressed in "every nation for itself" to the related thought in "Every man for himself." This recession to a lower moral standard was not a phenomenon without a historic parallel.

"Thou Shalt Not Steal"

A little less than a generation ago a president of the United States repeatedly declaimed, in what was by some regarded as intemperate language, against the sordid and corrupt influences that had become manifest in our national life. He did more. He invoked the penalties of the law against malefactors, high and low, and if it be true, as charged, that he occasionally looked leniently on the offenses of his friends, it is equally true that he acts as well as his words contributed materially to a restored respect for the Mosaic command, "Thou shalt not steal," as applicable no less to the affairs of government than to those of private life. There followed a period when a complacent president tolerated the return of the spirit partially exorcised by his predecessor, giving rise to the Ballinger scandal, a symptom of the resurgence of the elements within his party that had used and were determined to use the agencies of the government within and wherever safe, without the law, for private gain.

The catastrophe which overtook the republican party in consequence of the revolt in its own ranks against the sinister influences which dominated it need not be recounted, but it is significant of the character of their protest that that organization was denounced by one-half of its former adherents as essentially and irretrievably corrupt, and that they signified their severance from it by singing "Onward, Christian Soldiers."

I say nothing of the period of democratic ascendancy which followed, further than that after public monitions, in sums the magnitude of which the ordinary mind has and can have no adequate conception except by comparison, had been authorized and went in the prosecution of the greatest war of all time, by those who during that season of storm, represented us officially, and investigation after investigation, undertaken by their political opponents, had revealed nothing culpable, the inquiry collapsed under the scorn of the gentleman who, two weeks ago, was accorded by the republican party the second honor in the gift.

When it is remembered that it was the same elements within it that controlled and wrecked that party in 1912, which retained the supremacy in 1920, over a more or less reunited organization, contemptuous of all aspirations having a spiritual basis, either in national or international affairs, arrogant in victory, it is not surprising that its promises solemnly made in its platform to promote the organization of an association of nations, for the adjustment of international controversies, to support the League of Nations with which the name of the greatest American president, says only Washington, Jefferson and Lincoln, is so intimately associated, should be speedily consigned to oblivion.

Harding Surrounded by Mercenaries

These things considered, it will not appear so strange either that the new president was speedily surrounded by a group of mercenaries, whose sinister purpose he was, from his kindly nature, loath to suspect and, for one reason or another, unable to discern. What a galaxy! Forbes, Falk, Daugherty, Jess Smith, Mannington, Felder,

Darden, Kramer, with Roxie Stinson and Gaston B. Means in the back ground.

Was the appearance of these worthies purely accidental, sporadic in character? If it was not to be apprehended on account of conditions so bitterly denounced by the revolting republicans in 1912, consider how the leaders of the party to which they belonged have treated them in the delinquencies and villainies. What clarification voice has been raised from any high official quarter against Forbes, the despoiler of the disabled veteran, or Falk, who bartered away an important element of the national defense under circumstances he dare not tell his confidants criminally?

In its virile youth the men whose names blazon the pages of the history of the republican party did not hesitate to declaim against the corruption that was sapping its vitality. The venality that stained the administration of General Grant, though it left him untouched, was denounced by none more roundly or with greater effect than by William Cullen Bryant, William B. Curtis, Carl Schurz, Lyman Trumbull, Joseph Medill, Charles Francis Adams, and John Bigelow, political associates of Abraham Lincoln. They found no extenuation of the crimes that in their day polluted the record of the party they had helped set on foot, in a supposed after-the-war psychology.

Instead of exhorting the unfaithful public servants of whose misdeeds the uttermost parts of the earth are not uninformed, to the disgrace of the nation as well as of themselves, palliation is attempted in the absurd observation, emanating from the White House, that "men are involved who belong to both political parties," a charge characterized by one of the few leading republican papers that have declined to condone the offenses revealed as a "paltry bit of political misrepresentation."

Responsibility Rests on G. O. P.

Commenting further on the disclosures touching the leases of the naval oil reserves the same journal remarked pertinently that the "form of real concern is the corrupt procedure of a member of the cabinet and the connivance of two of his colleagues," and that "it is inconceivable that responsibility for the scandalous squander upon the republican party."

It is in this case tolerance of turpitude in public office that the real peril to free government lies rather than in its casual occurrence. Touching the abuses heaped upon those through whose efforts the investigations were made effective and the congress which authorized them, the president of the foremost woman's college in America wrote: "I am amazed, not at congress, but at the people, who seem for the first time in history to contemplate graft in high office with resignation." The distinguished educator must have meant some of the people, for I cannot believe that more than a negligible number regard with unconcern either the ignominy uncovered or the palpable falsehood of the republican platform in its assertions that the recent congressional investigations have exposed instances in both political parties of men in public office who are willing to sell official favor." If one democratic office-holder has been involved by the investigators for anything he did while in office let him be named. But if it be true that the moral tone of our people has been as debased as to contemplate graft in high office with resignation, at whose doors shall the blame be laid if not at those of the republican party, whose spokesman, applied at first by the disclosures, rallied to level their guns, not at those guilty of the dereliction made public, but at those who laid them bare.

President Shielded Delinquents

The president of the United States himself has not hesitated to endeavor to shield the delinquents from the public odium to which their derelictions have subjected them by joining in the hue and cry against the investigations that have been conducted under the authority of the senate and against that body for authorizing them. His message on the subject had for its plain purpose the suppression of an inquiry into the official conduct of a member of his cabinet. It is true he has historic warrant, if precedent be a warrant for his attitude. When the British house of commons sought to investigate the profligate and corrupt Duke of Buckingham, in connection with the ill-fated descent upon Cadix, Charles wrote that body, "I see you especially aim at the Duke of Buckingham. I must let you know that I will not allow any of my servants to be questioned among you, much less such as are of eminent place and near me." Charles lost his head and Calvin Coolidge may profit politically by his example!

People Are on Trial

I repeat I cannot admit the accusation that the people of America are indifferent to the corroding influence of corruption in office, high or low. But we shall see. They are on trial. If notwithstanding what has transpired the party now in power in the nation is continued in control by the choice of the people of the United States, apparent or real, what judgment must be passed upon them by the world? They enjoy the distinction of having erected and maintained a government whose officials are as free from suspicion of venality as those of any nation on earth, and they will not, I venture to predict, forfeit it.

In the hour of the triumph of materialism and selfishness, when the policy of isolation was laid to have been overwhelmingly endorsed; when, as stated, every sordid interest clamored to Washington, the republican party entered upon the task of revising the course. No portentous votes now dispersed the legislative lobby over night. The schedules show its handiwork. Higher than ever before mounted the rates. If I had my way, said Senator Gooding of Idaho, "I would make the duty so high that there would be a complete embargo against every manufactured article that can be produced in this country."

There is an exquisite harmony between the policy of isolation and of a protective tariff as conceived by this statesman, and as exemplified in the act of 1922. Why trouble ourselves about the troubles of Europe? Let her stew in her own juice. Let us not even trade with her. Of course no such policy was or could be pursued.

A decent respect for the unfortunate ultimate consumer, whose some restraint upon the rapacity of the favor seekers. The promptings of a common humanity no less than the distress of agriculture relying upon markets across the sea forced a grudging attention to conditions prevailing and events transpiring there. The people of Europe have been constantly calling upon our private citizens to aid in bringing order out of the chaos there, intensifying the impoverishment due to the war. Elihu Root went at their request to assist in drafting the statute for the world court, John Bassett Moore to sit as one of its judges, Abram Litkus to arbitrate the Aaland island dispute, Norman Davis to adjust the Poland-Lithuania boundary controversy, Henry Morgenthau to promote the establishment in industry of the Greek refugees, Charles G. Dawes to solve the reparations tangle, and Professor Shotwell and General Bliss to work out a disarmament program. But the government of the United States must do nothing lest the irreconcilables disrupt the republican party.

Farmers Bankrupt

For the harmony thus secured and the prosperity enjoyed by the tariff beneficiaries the farmers of the northwest have paid until bankruptcy among them is general. No such disaster has ever befallen that section. The depressed period of the nineties on which republicans orators discredited for a generation bore no comparison to the present deplorable era. According to the secretary of agriculture 40 per cent. of all the farmers in South Dakota are virtually bankrupt; 42 per cent. in Colorado; 50 per cent. in North Dakota; 51 per cent. in Wyoming; 52 per cent. in Montana and approximately 75 per cent. in the hitherto prosperous states of Iowa and Minnesota. The farmer's dollar, measured by the standard of 1913, buys only 44 cents' worth of commodities, the price of his produce falling in accordance with world prices while everything he must buy is held at the war level by the tariff.

Though conditions are most acute in the northwest, every product that must find a foreign market is affected. Banks are suspending at the rate of more than a thousand per year, signifying social readjustments of the most far-reaching character. We are officially informed that the net change of population from farm to town during 1923 was over 1,300,000, accelerating a movement in progress in recent decades that had already excited general alarm.

The tremendous reduction in the purchasing power of the farm population is already reflected in increased unemployment in most of the leading industries.

Republican Party Impotent

In the face of an impending national calamity the republican party is impotent. Held fast by the great monopolistic beneficiaries of the tariff it dare not lower the rates even on those commodities, a reduction in the price of which would be of immediate benefit to the farmer, lest the whole structure should tumble. Hoping for another victory by perseverance, in its opposition to the only plan yet devised by the nations looking to the outlawry of war, it dare not take a step toward the pacification of Europe, with a view to the restoration of its normal purchasing power, lest it be wrecked by the passions it aroused to accomplish the rejection of the covenant of the League of Nations for no better reason than it was sponsored by a democratic president. It has no remedy, it offers no relief from the paralysis that afflicts agriculture, threatening every form of industry. Moreover, it finds itself plagued with representatives in both houses of congress, representative of current thought among their constituents, holding views so radically antagonistic to those of the dominant faction in the party as to preclude the possibility of uniting on any program of legislation. Its frantic effort to rid itself of the embarrassment of these insurgent members is as ludicrous as it will prove futile. They cannot be shaken off. They have the endorsement of their people. No regular or stand-pat republican could make head against any one of them. They represent a revolt in a region overwhelmingly republican against the policies of the republican party. With their aid the democratic members of the congress wrote the revenue act lately approved in defiance of the recommendation of the president and his secretary of the treasury, a champion in the history of congressional legislation without, it is believed, a parallel. They encouraged, promoted and actively aided in the investigations of the executive departments in conjunction with the democratic members and co-operated with them in securing appropriate action touching the revelations made by the various committees. They revolted against the choice of the majority of their party for the chairmanship of one of the leading committees of the senate and elevated a democratic member to that place. The republican party has ceased to be an organization through which the business of the country can be carried on. Nor is that the end of the antagonisms within the party.

The president was at odds with the majority wing, with which he is supposed to be sympathetic, on the world court, the pension bill, the adjusted compensation bill and, to a greater or less extent, on the immigration bill. And now to cap the climax unseemly dissensions rend the party organization charged with the conduct of the campaign about to begin. If these be not the signs of dissolution, at least disaster may be read in the formal severance of any allegiance which may subsist on the part of the so-called progressive wing of the party about to duplicate the revolt of 1912 and effect an independent organization.

Upon the record of the democratic party through eight years of glorious history from 1913 to 1921 we submit that it should again be entrusted with the direction of our national affairs. There is no blot upon that record, it shines resplendent. No like period in our history is more crowded with great events or has presented problems more profound. It is signified by the enactment of more legislation for the common good than is recorded in our annals for any other equal number of years. The exigencies arising from the sudden outbreak of the war in 1914 and the collapse of the world's system of exchange were met in a fashion in no sense derogatory. When the nation eventually became involved in the sanguinary conflict its resources in men and material were marshaled in a way that astonished our allies and brought consternation to the ranks of our enemies. The financing of the great enterprise reflected the highest credit upon the party that undertook its direction. True, the towering genius, the rival, in intellect of Jefferson, who held the helm in that period of stress and storm, is no more. The stricken statesman rests secure in the reverential regard of his countrymen. But his high ideals, his lofty purposes, his trust in the judgment of the plain people remain our heritage. Though he saw plainly and pointed unerringly to the evils in the body politic, it is in no sense derogatory to his fame that the legislation conceived to meet the situation which gave lustre to this administration was the work of other more practiced and perhaps practical if less brilliant, minds. The mutations in their ranks have in no wise operated to impair their efficiency as a body or make them less responsive to the heart throbs of the plain people. Witness the revenue law of the last session, before referred to. Had it suited the purpose of those who sought at such trouble and expense to secure a popular verdict in favor of the Mellon plan to invite an expression on it as against the plan embodied in the law, the former would have been condemned as emphatically by the test as it was by both houses of congress.

The two schemes of tax reduction afforded an illuminating answer to the intimation often carried in the inquiry as to the difference between the republican and democratic party. Each accomplished substantially the same reduction. Each released for investment in productive enterprises approximately the same amount of capital. But the plan of the president and his secretary gave the greatest relief relatively to the few over-rich, the democratic plan to the many of small or moderate means. And this in strict accord with the principle of the income tax that those should pay most who have the most with which to pay.

In the process of the sums as we recede from the war period further reduction in taxation is to be expected. It is an idle boast that five years after the cessation of hostilities a substantial reduction in our annual budget is noticeable.

I know how eager the managers of the campaign for the re-election of President Coolidge are to switch the issues from honest government, the repeal of the new tariff of abominations, relief for agriculture, and related reforms, to the League of Nations. It is not so necessary that we immediately join the league as it is that we abandon foolish antagonism to any world movement, however commendable in itself, merely because it is in some way associated with the league. We may confidently rely upon general support of a policy of active participation by our government in any effort that may be made through the league or any other channel to bring about a restoration of normal industrial activity in Europe and to establish a state of actual peace in every case in which it is reasonably safe to do so without entangling ourselves in the quarrels of its constituent nations or involving us in schemes of national aggrandizement or controversies distinctly political in character.

The honor of our country, the prosperity of our people demand that we return to the ideals of Woodrow Wilson, that we resume the place he won for us—the moral leadership of the world.

About 60 per cent of all the cotton grown in the world is produced in the southern part of the United States.

McAdoo and Smith Managers Work Vigorously While Others Pursue Watchful Waiting Policy

Democracy's Bosses

BY HARRY B. HUNT
N.E.A. Service Writer

WASHINGTON, June 25.—Who'll smash the deadlock at New York? Why the Irish!

That is, unless the sons who trace their lineage to the Auld Sod have lost their cunning in politics. And they're not yet ready to concede that point.

While candidates and delegates are milling around in a feverish dash in an attempt to round up enough votes for themselves or their favorite, the real force likely to play the big part in effecting consolidation of support sufficient to nominate are keeping in the background, their strategy already laid, waiting for the psychological moment to move.

These are the men who, as bosses in districts sufficiently powerful to influence the result in pivotal states, can coerce a following for outside the limits of each boss' bailiwick.

The Big Three

First and foremost in this group of political caesars who will attempt to manipulate the convention for their own greater power are George Brennan, Chicago; Tom Taggart, Indianapolis; and George Washington Olney, New York.

Brennan, a huge man with a bull voice and a wooden leg, who came to power through many bitter battles in Cook county politics, is credited by many with being the shrewdest politician of the bunch.

Only second to him as an expert in the shuffling of political pawns is Tom Taggart, who came from Monahan, Ireland, and who for 20 years has held Hoosier democracy under his thumb. Tom served a while as senator, by appointment, following the death of Senator Shively, but prefers the game of picking others for office rather than holding office himself.

Plenty of Advice

Olney is as yet untested in the larger field of political basism. He is the newly chosen chief of Tammany Hall, a long-headed, cold-eyed individual who until recently has been a judge in the New York court of special sessions.

Olney's inexperience, however, will be fortified by the advice and counsel of Tammany's politically clever candidate, Gov. Al Smith, and for New York democratic interests as a whole by Norman Maclean of Buffalo, up-state leader and former chairman of the democratic national committee.

Next in line as bosses of slightly lesser influence, but who must be dealt with if the selection ultimately is decided by an inside machine combination, come James Michael Curley of Boston, and Frank Hague of New Jersey.

Curley, mayor of Boston, president of the Hibernia Savings bank of the Hub and leading member of the Tammany club of Boston, is counted on to handle the New England ballots in any boss-made selection.

They All Help

Hague, mayor of Jersey City, will have the New Jersey votes at his disposal. And even that small group might be just the number needed to turn the trick.

Joseph Guffy of Pennsylvania, while not qualifying as a "boss" in the sense of these others, may be listed as a likely "insider" in any effort to handpick the candidate to break the deadlock. Similarly, Tom Love of Texas will be a probable consultant in such arrangements.

Far outside the delegations directly controlled or indirectly influenced by the Brennan-Taggart-Olney-Curley-Guffy combination, the Pennsylvania and Texas delegations are the most powerful.

So, if nobody else can break the deadlock—just leave it to the Irish. They may decide to break it for themselves anyway.

to substitute a majority for the two-thirds nomination rule appeared to have vanished with the rules committee's overwhelming vote to maintain the tradition.

The rules committee, however, in adopting its report did not touch on the question of unit voting, and some of its members wanted a decision by the convention itself on the issue whether a majority of a state delegation may be permitted to bind the whole to support a single candidate who not so instructed by state conventions or primaries.

To Carry Contest to Floor

Also out of the credentials committee hearing—marked by only two contests—came the announcement by Mrs. Angie V. Kingsley, chairman of the democratic central committee of Hennepin (Minnesota) county, Minnesota, that her contest against 11 of that state's 28 delegates, would be carried to the floor.

Mrs. Kingsley's contest was dismissed with only two negative votes on the ground that she had not presented a prima facie case, within the scope of the committee. She announced after consultation with her counsel, C. C. Daniels of New York, brother of the former naval secretary, that her demands would be placed before the convention in a minority report by Daniel C. Roper, former collector of internal revenue and district of Columbia member of the committee.

CONVENTION NOTES

NEW YORK, June 25.—With another hot day in prospect, delegates to the democratic national convention before entering Madison Square Garden today, took a look about for "the mothers of New York," a group of women, who yesterday distributed fans to all those attending the convention.

These women yesterday were about the most popular in the convention as they distributed arms full of strong paper fans, which later in the hands of delegates and others, by their steady flutter, gave the gathering an appearance different from the San Francisco meeting of four years ago, when no fans were needed.

SECOND DAY OF CONVENTION

McAdoo and Smith Forces Work Vigorously—Others Watching and Waiting

Two-Thirds Rule Stands—Nominating Speeches Take Precedence Over Report

NEW YORK, June 25.—Still confused by the multiplicity of presidential candidates but with its platform advanced to the sub-committee drafting stage, the democratic national convention went into its second day to perfect organization, hear another keynote address, and take up committee reports.

Senator Walsh of Montana, the dominant figure in the all-leaving investigation was today's keener in the role of permanent chairman, succeeding Senator Harrison of Mississippi, who as temporary chairman, yesterday, opened the party's broadside against the republican record.

Campaign headquarters for the numerous candidates, meanwhile, maintained their varying—and in the aggregate, bewildering—courses of strategy.

"Watchful Waiting"

The McAdoo and Smith camps drove vigorously ahead in their efforts to capture delegates, while most of the others, including the Underwood supporters, appeared to be pursuing to the greater or less degree, policies of watching and waiting.

The old-time convention spirit that found its way even into the opening session had new fuel on which to feed today in the reports on last night's committee decisions, although the much-talked-of prospect for a fight men from all parts of the country were presenting matters for the welfare of the nation to the democratic platform committee in a sweltering hot hotel room last night, other men and women attired in gay evening clothes were dancing in the adjoining small ballroom. Frequently the pounding of the gavel by Homer S. Cummings, chairman of the platform committee, kept time with the music, unknown to the chairman when the door of the committee room was opened and the pounding penetrated to the corridor.

While serious minded men and women were dancing in the adjoining small ballroom. Frequently the pounding of the gavel by Homer S. Cummings, chairman of the platform committee, kept time with the music, unknown to the chairman when the door of the committee room was opened and the pounding penetrated to the corridor.

WHITE ON BLACK

Black crepe de chine dresses are given an interesting touch by the use of white pearl buttons and button holes bound with white silk.

FIVE PLATS

A French shop is importing very charming frocks of flat crepe finely accented pleated and trimmed with hand hemstitching.

Nominating Speeches First

In the other contest, which came from Oregon, McAdoo supporters on the committee were credited with winning the decision by which Judge Thomas C. Burke was seated to fill the vacancy in the delegation caused by the illness of Frank S. Myers of Portland, over the claims advanced in behalf of Miss Claire Pierce, daughter of Gov. Pierce. This decision made by a 20 to 14 vote, also involved reorganization of the state delegation.

The rules committee recommendations for convention procedure gave precedence over the platform committee's report to nominating speeches for presidential candidates with voting to follow adoption of the declaration of principles.

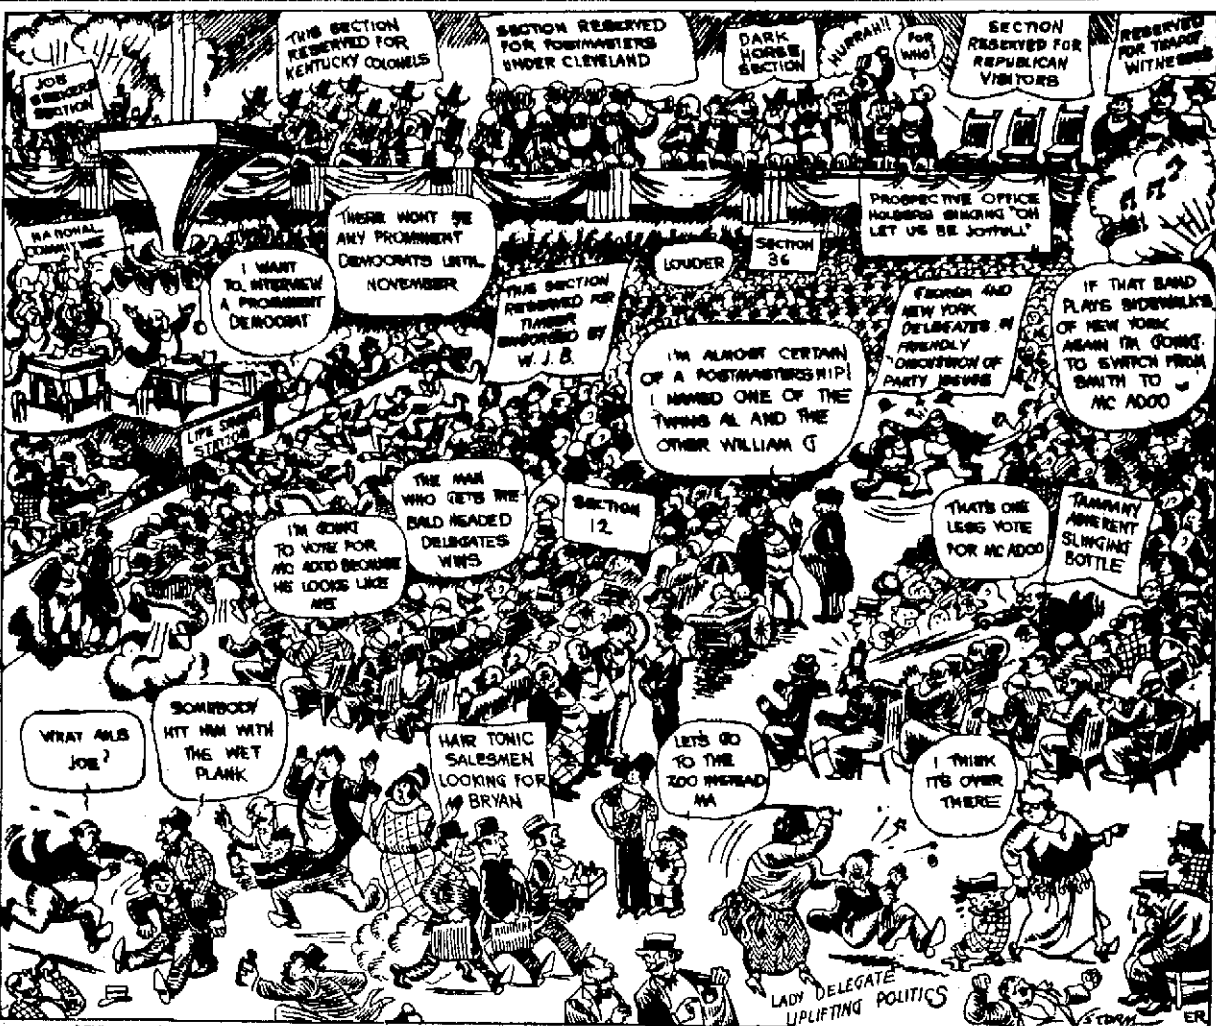

Today's convention session was called for 11 a. m., eastern daylight saving time, with consideration of the reports of the credentials and permanent organization committees following the invocation by Bishop Thomas R. Gailor of the Protestant Episcopal church and preceding the address of Senator Walsh.

Arizona Delegation

The Arizona delegation, which was deadlocked yesterday over organization, agreed unanimously on one thing and that was that their state flag had been hung upside down in the lobby of their hotel quarters. One of their number was sent to the hotel management and the flag was soon rearranged with the sunset rightside up.

had completed a lengthy hearing on numerous proposals.

Declarations on foreign relations, farm relief, prohibition and the Ku Klux Klan formed the most difficult problems confronting the sub-committee, which was called to begin its labors at 10 a. m. under the chairmanship of Homer S. Cummings of Connecticut, who also heads the full committee.

With Burst of Music, New York Opens Her Doors

With bands playing and flags waving, New York officially opened her doors to visiting delegates to the convention with a municipal parade on Fifth Avenue. Thousands marched and many more thousands watched. Arrow indicates Madison Square Garden, where the convention is being staged.

Robert L. Owen, Oklahoma, and Representative Finis J. Garrett, Tennessee, were optimistic but not inclined before they went into executive session, to make definite predictions as to when they would finish their task.

The hearing of the full committee, which was begun shortly after adjournment of the opening session of the convention yesterday afternoon, continued until after 1 o'clock this morning, with most of the oratory centering about the League of Nations and prohibition.

A large number of other subjects were discussed, however, by spokesmen for various organizations and groups, and the committee was warned by Representative Harry B. Hawes of Missouri and Julius Atchell of Colorado, that the fight for a specific denunciation of the Ku Klux Klan would be carried to the convention floor if the name of the order should be left out of the "civil and religious liberty" plank by the platform drafters. Committee members from Massachusetts, Ohio, Minnesota and Wisconsin also went on record as urging mention of the Klan, and when opposing views were invited by the chair, including a call for Imperial Wizard Evans, no voice was raised against the proposal.

When the hearing opened, members of the committee were asked to file with the primary written suggestions drawn by them or submitted to them for presentation, and in a few moments, the desk was deluged, with more promised today.

The requests of organized labor as represented by the American Federation of Labor were placed before the drafting committee today by President George F. Willard, secretary of the organization, and other members of the organization. These were the same as those urged upon the republican convention at Cleveland.

MASS. DELEGATES ACTIVE AT CONVENTION

NEW YORK, June 25.—The New England delegates to the democratic convention devoted their energies last evening to a serious attempt to keep cool.

Delegates Cheer Walsh

Senator David I. Walsh made one of the perfunctory motions on which the delegates voted at yesterday's session of the convention. It was not a very important matter—he moved that all planks submitted be referred without debate to the committee on resolutions—but it was enough to give the Massachusetts delegates an opportunity of which they availed themselves—to stand and cheer him.

This incident also called the attention of the 10,000 people, more or less, in the Garden to the fact that Massachusetts is on the map in this convention, although it has no candidate of its own for president, as the republicans of this state had in Cleveland two weeks ago.

The only other member of the Massachusetts delegation who attracted special attention in the convention yesterday was City Councillor James A. Watson of Boston. When Senator Harrison made the reference to Woodrow Wilson which caused the long demonstration of enthusiasm, "Jerry," as everybody calls him, carried the Massachusetts banner in the parade around the great hall. Yesterday, by the way, was Mr. Watson's birthday.

Two more Massachusetts men yesterday received honorary appointments connection with the convention, Arthur Lyman of Waltham, who was chairman of the democratic state committee two years ago and is one of the delegates-at-large to the convention, was made the honorary vice-president from Massachusetts, and Joseph B. Ely of Westfield, who was a candidate for the nomination for governor in 1922 and also is a delegate-at-large, was chosen honorary secretary. These appointments were made by the Massachusetts delegation and approved by the convention.

Curleys Arrive

Mayor James M. Curley and Mrs. Curley appeared in New York yesterday and attended the session of the convention. Almost every prominent Boston democrat is now in the city. Ex-Mayor Fitzgerald came with the Massachusetts delegation on the boat last Sunday evening and ex-Mayor Peters also is here. Nobody knows how many future mayors of Boston are on hand.

Col. William A. Gaston, who ran against Senator Lodge two years ago, is here, and an interesting rumor connected with him has been heard in other hotels although it apparently has not yet reached the Massachusetts delegation. Col. Gaston is not a delegate and consequently has no part in the convention, but it is said that he is doing what he can to help the cause of Gov. Smith.

The gossip is that, if by chance it happens that Gov. Smith is not nominated and the convention turns to the middle west or the far west for a candidate for the presidency, Col. Gaston may be brought forward as a candidate for vice-president. If he wanted it, he would have the solid support of the Massachusetts delegation and probably of New England as a whole. But that contingency is far off.

Massachusetts is so much committed to Gov. Smith that the members of the delegation apparently have not considered the necessity of making a second choice in case it appears that Gov. Smith cannot be nominated. Everything will depend on the circumstances which exist at that time, if it ever comes.

CHIEFS POPULAR

For mid-summer the crepes and chiffons come to the front. This season many of the loveliest ones are in plaids in tartan patterns or in black and white with just a touch of some vivid color.

In New York

BY STEPHEN HANNAGAN.

NEW YORK, June 25.—This is one of the tragedies of Broadway that can't be told with names.

A broken old woman tottered into the lobby of one of those exclusive hotels on the upper reaches of the famous thoroughfare of broken promises and broken hearts.

In her raiment makeup was a dash of the styles of many periods of the past. It included bright green hose. With toothless interest she gaped at a wedding reception, looking longingly at a flower-like girl receiving the congratulations of scores of fashionably dressed guests.

A bellboy snickered.

"They say she's her daughter," he confided, pointing toward the hag and the bride-to-be.

Inquiry revealed the story.

The old woman was once the pampered darling of a wealthy man. He sent her child to France to be educated and brought her home only when a husband had been chosen for her.

Meanwhile, the mother, ruined by drugs and drink, was cast aside, forgotten even by the daughter, who never really knew her.

The beauty of yesteryear stared dully from her background seat awhile—then slipped unobtrusively away.

The daughter never will know.

She thinks her mother died years ago.

THE OLD HOME TOWN

BARTLETT SCHOOL TEAM BANQUETED

Members of the Bartlett school athletic teams were banqueted last night in the school gymnasium as a mark of appreciation for their splendid success during the past year, the school teams having won the basketball and baseball championships and having been runners up for the football title.

The banquet was served at 5.30 o'clock and present in addition to the members of the team were Mayor John J. Donovan, Supt. of Schools Hugh J. Molloy, Donald R. MacIntyre, head of the department of physical education in the city schools, Miss Charlotte Murkland, principal of the school, Coach Joseph Duffy and several members of the school faculty.

Each of the guests was called upon for remarks and each in turn praised the team members for their great work in upholding the honor of the Bartlett school in sports. On behalf of the city and the school, Mayor Donovan presented the baseball squad with watch fobs. At the conclusion of the exercises, the boys united in cheering those present for their words of appreciation.

Tourists from the United States spent $135,500,000 in Canada last year.

SALE OF OLD B. &amp; M. RAILROAD STATION

The old Boston and Maine railroad station in Central street, a former home of the Lowell exchange, of the New England Telephone Co., has been purchased for investment purposes by Edwin A. Simpson, who has held it under lease since 1912. The city assessment is $24,000, which is less than the transfer price it is said. Attorneys J. Gilbert Hill and Arthur C. Spalding handled the sale for Mr. Simpson.

The old railroad property covers a large area in addition to the frontage in Central street. The ground floors are given over to various enterprises including the Rialto theatre and the Boulder store. The C. F. Hatch Co. occupies much of the rear part of the building and there also is a large garage in the property where it fronts on George street. The building has a depth of 500 feet on Williams and Green streets.

JEWS ARE PLANNING BIG RECEPTION TO VISITORS

Orthodox Jewry of Massachusetts is planning a monster welcome of a very special nature to the representatives of the world rabbi's delegation, which is to arrive in Boston, July 1, for a few days' stay. Lowell Jewry will have representatives at the reception demonstration. Rabbi Elias Wolfson of the local synagogues has been especially invited to attend and participate in the welcoming program.

This visit to New England on the part of noted Jewish rabbis from foreign lands is almost unprecedented. The delegation to visit Boston on the first leg of its itinerary on July 1 next consists of Rabbi Abraham Kook, chief rabbi of Palestine; Rabbi Abraham Ber Schapiro, chief rabbi of Lithuania; and Rabbi M. M. Epstein, dean of Slabodka Theological academy. These distinguished leaders of the Jewry beyond the seas are planning to tour America in the interest of religious schools and agencies in eastern Europe and Palestine. These institutions, as a result of economic distress, are threatened with extinction.

The Boston reception committee has arranged for a banquet to be held in Paul Revere hall, Mechanics building, Tuesday evening, July 1. The committee is also considering calling a mass meeting.

Rabbi Kook, one of the coming visitors to American shores, is a recognized Talmudic scholar and a champion of Jewish rights in the ancient fatherland of Israel. He holds many decorations and honorary orders from the British government. Rabbi Kook has also gained the highest respect of Christians and Moslems.

The delegation represents the central relief committee of this country, which is making a desperate effort to maintain the Talmud Torahs and the Yeshivahs in Ukraine, Poland, Lithuania, Hungary, Czechoslovakia and Palestine. They desire to continue training 250,000 Jewish children of eastern Europe, which is dependent upon the continuation of the religious schools. The delegation also seeks means of maintaining 80,000 Jewish orphans.

ELKS WILL INVADE THE COMMODORE

Members of Lowell lodge of Elks and their friends will invade the Commodore ballroom on Thordike street Friday night for the annual Rose party and dance. For some years past Lowell lodge has conducted a similar event during the summer season and the affair always proved to be a huge success.

The proceeds of the party will be given to the local committee of the Boston convention, Michael J. Markham, P. E. R. heads the committee and is assisted by a large number of members. Plans are nearly completed and indications point to a brilliant event. Tickets are in the hands of the committee or may be procured at the Commodore on Friday evening.

Several features will be on the program and a real enjoyable evening is assured to those who attend. Miner-Doyle's orchestra will play for dancing and there will be special numbers for those of the older school. Tickets are 50 cents.

TRAFFIC IRRITANTS

Many of our most important highways are becoming so congested both day and night in the summer months, that the situation is contributing another traffic safety problem to the many with which the Massachusetts highway commission and motor vehicle officials have to cope. Attention has been called frequently of late to the rapidly increasing number of wayside sales stands and gasoline stations along all of our most important, heavy-traffic thoroughfares.

The gasoline stations, far more numerous this year than last, do not constitute so serious a problem as the rapidly multiplying large and small refreshment stands now lining many highways, many of them not very far apart, dispensing cool drinks, food of the quick sandwich variety and sometimes farm vegetables and fruits. Many of the gasoline stations have driveways which take the motor cars off the highway traffic lane, but the refreshment stands as a rule "park" as closely to the main thoroughfare as possible in order that their wares may be better exhibited and their signs read.

These stands, big and small, are naturally thickly situated on the heaviest-traveled roads, because more business can be done. When several cars are lined up at one of these highway refreshment stands, there is usually not only serious congestion, but actual danger always imminent. No roadside stands are allowed to be erected in any part of the state highway, and if it is done, the state officials have the power to remove them.

We are informed that the conditions in Massachusetts created by the enormous increase in wayside stands this season, are now being seriously studied by the commissioner of public works and the commissioner of public safety. There is no question but what the wayside merchants of the summer season are within their rights, for there is no law by which these stands, if properly conducted, can be eliminated. The business, of course, is entirely legitimate in most cases. Complaints insist that it is not the sales service business which constitutes the real problem, but due to the rapid expansion in the last two years, there are many such trading institutions that are now a menace to safe highway travel instead of a boon for travelers of the motor world.

The Massachusetts commissioners, it is said, as a result of their study of the situation complained of, believe that what seems to be needed is the application of some of the city traffic regulations to the rural roads. That, of course, would require the passage of new laws.

OUR CITIZEN SOLDIER

Lowell military organizations affiliated with the Massachusetts National guard, are reported to be ready for the coming annual summer military training sessions, scheduled to be held at Camp Devens, starting early next month.

July is generally the hottest month of the year. Nearly every time the volunteer soldiers encamp at Devens, the weather appears to be continuously torrid and most uncomfortable.

We understand that a campaign is now under way among friends of the national guard and leaders, as well as members of several large volunteer units, also, to have the annual Bay State encampments conducted either earlier or later in the year. This is desirable for the personal comfort of all military participants, for one thing, and because conditions of weather and temperatures are apt to be more comfortable in the spring months and in the fall than in mid-summer, when temperatures are sometimes so high that sickness and death result.

That Lowell soldiers will make a splendid appearance in the military maneuvers at Devens this year is assured. Company ranks are to be full as usual, for there is no tendency in this section of the state to let the national guard sink into "innocuous desuetude." The prompt response of able-bodied young men who joined the colors in Lowell recently in response to a ringing appeal for full quota by a new local military company is ready at any time to meet such a situation with promptness and despatch.

FIGHTING DIPHTHERIA

Probably the greatest health campaign ever waged in Greater Boston to the interests of children less than five years of age, began on Monday of the present week. It is a war against the dread diphtheria—one of little children's worst enemies. It is claimed now that the greatest mortality from this disease occurs among children in the first five-year period of life. Diphtheria prevention work has been very successful among children of school age thus far, and critics of old now admit it.

The latest method of fighting diphtheria is considered most remarkable from the fact that when little children undergo the new treatment, they are not made ill by the effects of the fluid injections. Out of about 100 children liable to have diphtheria, 85 per cent. are less than five years of age. These children may be given the protective injections under the new treatment without any preliminary tests, all dangerous conditions being removed from the latest proceedings in the child immunization program.

Boston has organized 40 stations in the same number of public schools, for the inaugural treatments. Doctors and nurses are on hand, competent and familiar with the "safely first" campaign ahead. Other New England cities may have an opportunity to perform this same work later on.

There is evidence of a desire in some quarters to wait a little longer before organizing an extensive campaign on the scale of Boston, although the results of the method now being widely adopted have apparently shown the efficacy of the new method of "fighting the enemy before it appears."

SEEN AND HEARD

The biggest things in life are the small things.

Many a garden plot has ceased to be the land of promise.

It is hard to sing "Home, Sweet Home" in a rented house.

Since the first four years is supposed to form a child's character we can report there will be no wild man shortage.

A Thought:
That destructive syren sloth is ever to be avoided.—Horace.

No Harm Done
As an express train was going through a station, one of the passengers leaned out of the window, overbalanced and fell out. He fortunately landed on a sand heap, so that he did himself no great injury; but, with torn clothes, he said to a porter: "What shall I do?" "You're all right, mister," said the porter. "Your ticket allows you to break your journey."

Genile Reminder
A visitor to a lunatic asylum was approached by an inmate, who begged that his hard case might be laid before a magistrate and his release obtained. The visitor promised to take the necessary steps immediately. "You will not forget?" said the lunatic. "O, no." "You are sure you will not forget?" "Certainly not." As the visitor turned to go, he received a kick that laid him in a heap a few feet away. "That," said the lunatic, "is in case you should forget."

Our Unexplored Country
One of the largest unexplored areas in the United States lies in a triangular space between the Colorado and the San Juan rivers in southwestern Utah. An expedition of the National Geographic society has begun a survey of the region, primarily to determine whether it was once generally inhabited by the ancient cliff-dwellers. The country consists mostly of canyons and sandstone cliffs and is of fantastic beauty. An area as large as some of the smaller eastern states still remains quite unknown to white men.—Youth's Companion.

Pink Eating Golf Greens
An unusual situation exists in Madison, according to George N. Mansfield, chief of the game warden service of the Indiana department of conservation, who recently received a letter from golf enthusiasts explaining their predicament and asking advice. The letter explained that the golf links of the Madison Country club lie along the Ohio river and the recent heavy rains have caused the river to rise and flood the links. Members of the club wish permission to eat the greens, ascertaining that schools of buffalo fish are eating the grass and ruining certain parts of the course. Mansfield, of course, could not give them permission to seine, even under such unusual circumstances.—Indianapolis News.

A Surprised Johnnie
An Englishman, who knew no language but his own, had lost his way in Rome. In his perplexity it occurred to him to write the name of his hotel in large letters on his card, and hand it to the first benign-looking individual he met. An Italian, thus accosted, turned, and, with the charming manners of his race, accompanied the perturbed Englishman for about 20 minutes in silence until they reached the hotel designated. Then the tourist poured out voluble thanks in the only language at his command. The Italian looked at him in amazement, and remarked in perfect English, "I thought you were deaf and dumb."

Thrifty Jack
Jack McLeod, who loved nothing better than to sit beside a quiet pool, rod in hand, and wait for the fish to bite, had been absorbed in his favorite occupation from early in the morning until long past noon of a sunny summer day. A neighboring farmer, observing that the fisherman was enjoying apparently no lack at all, undertook to remind Jack that it was past the lunch hour. "Ye'll have missed your dinner complete, mon," he said, "and still ye have no fish. Why don't ye go home?" The fisherman spat solemnly at his line. "I have three worms left," he replied, "that I wouldn't let go to waste." Everybody's Magazine.

His Descent
The pompous individual had just alighted from the bus at the corner of Threadneedle street, where the famous old lady of that name stands. When a stout old country woman offered him three pence to carry a large basket of fruit for her, he was extremely annoyed and showed it. He shook his umbrella angrily and stamped his foot on the ground. "Woman!" he muttered and showed it. He shook his umbrella angrily and stamped his foot on the ground. ## MAN ABOUT TOWN

Among the happiest-looking individuals at the flag-raising ceremony in connection with the dedication of the new combination field and track at Alumni park last Saturday were the two oldest living male and female graduates of the high school, Mr. Edward M. Tucke of the class of 1888, and Elizabeth King Osgood of the class of 1889. Both appeared to thoroughly enjoy the festivities and stayed through the entire performance.

"Eddie" Morris, who did the announcing during the meet, is the same Eddie who thrills thousands of football fans in the big Harvard stadium every fall. He is the possessor of a mighty loud voice which can be heard in every corner of the lot where he performs. After Saturday's affair here, Mr. Morris was the guest of Hon. Perry D. Thompson at the Co. C bivouac at the Dracut rifle range.

A Boston newspaper recently carried a story containing the name of James Heslin of Lowell. He was mentioned quite frequently in connection with the New England delegation to the democratic convention in New York. Although never a candidate for office himself, Jimmy has been an active political campaigner for several years.

Bathing beaches are popular these days. Took a ride to Gloucester last Sunday and, of course, passed through Salem. Beverly, Manchester and the other well-known resorts along the North shore. As it was really the first warm day of the year, the bathing spots were well patronized. Many Lowell people anticipating a dip in the briny at Lynn were disappointed. I understand, to find that the bath house there was not open to the public last Sunday.

Too? Three-pence, woman, three-pence? I have never been so insulted in my life. Do you know that I am descended from the Duke of Dalrymple? "O, I beg pardon, sir," stammered the old woman, thoroughly put out. "I thought you had descended from the Baywater bus!"

Comparison
Edgar, a 14-year-old, had reached the awkward age. He was just outgrowing the largest knickerbocker trousers, his hands were large and he used them in a none-too-graceful manner. His feet were oversized and unmanageable. He went through the house slamming doors, whistling, and shouting until the family was driven most to distraction. He happened to overhear his parents in conversation as to a suitable present. The next day he told a friend that he thought he knew what he was going to get. "A saxophone, I guess," he said. "What are they going to get you one of them for?" he was asked disdainfully. "Because they don't want me to make so much noise," was his innocent reply.—Indianapolis News.

Vacation
Vacation days are coming soon. From cares and labor free. Which some of us may choose between The mountains and the sea. For in the joyous summer-time The weary worker seeks To find a place away from home Where he can spend two weeks.

Each has his special preference; Something appeals to each—The shadows of the mountains, or The girls upon the beach. Some want excitement all the time, To give their pleasure zest. While some are wholly satisfied To get away and rest.

Alas, for very few of us Are rich enough to seize The opportunities we have And go just where we please! Some lucky ones will see the sights In Paris or in Rome, And some will stay at home! But more will stay at home! —SOMERVILLE JOURNAL.

On coming to a fork in the road many young couples consider it proper to use it for a spoon.

Nice thing about being too skinny is you can eat all you please without gaining an ounce.

It is easy to get a boy to take a bath. Just buy a hose and let him water the lawn.

All work and no pay makes jack a scarce article.

Backsliding gives others a chance to step in your face.

Fireworks may be scarce on the Fourth of July but bootleg customers always see as many as usual.

WINNERS OF TWO-DAY TRIP TO AMHERST

The winners of the annual two-day trip to the Massachusetts Agricultural college at Amherst, which takes place on July 22 and 23, have been announced by the Middlesex County Extension Service.

Sixty-five members will have the privilege of taking this trip. The following names are those of boys and girls from this locality who have been outstanding in club work for two years or more and have, accordingly, been awarded this trip:

Adelard Potier, Billerica; Edith Small, North Billerica; Marie Gauthier, North Chelmsford; Grace Paignon, Chelmsford; Catherine Povey, Collinsville; Stanley Ogonski and Rella Park, Dracut; Lillian Morgan, Dunstable; Elsie Hicks, North Tewksbury; Dora Belletier, Richard Lambert and Ray Ekstrom, Tyngsboro.

CLEANING PAN

When cooking vessels of tin, iron, agate or enamelware have been burned they may be cleaned without violent scraping by filling with cold water, adding a quart and heating slowly to the boiling point. After allowing it to boil for five or ten minutes the food can be easily removed and the pan will not have been injured.

Animals grow, live and feel; plants grow and live; minerals also grow.

SONNET

A good that never satisfies the mind,
A beauty fading like the April shower,
A sweet with floods of gall that runs combined,
A pleasure poisoning ere in thought made ours,
A honor that more fickle is than wind,
A glory at opinion's frown that lowers,
A treasury which bankrupt time devours,
A knowledge than grave ignorance more blind,
A vain delight our equals to command,
A style of greatness in effect a dream,
A swelling thought of holding sea and land,
A servile lot deck'd with a pompous name,
Are the strange ends we toil for here below
Till wisest death makes us our errors know.

—William Drummond.

The TELEPHONE GIRL

Did you ever try sitting all day in one place and still try to keep up your nerve? It's something that brings to your system a trace of the something that makes patience swerve.

The sitting, alone, ought to be quite enough to make anybody go sour. But, think of the 'phone girl, whose duties are tough as she waits on us hour after hour.

All day there's a buzzing, and little lights flick on the board, and she dare not forsake it. Complaints rattle in; it's no wonder she's sick of the job, though she sits there to take it!

In all of your life have you ever heard tell of a person just perfect—now truly? If you listened all day to the telephone bell it's a cinch that you'd too be unruly.

Remember that 'phone girls are human like you, and they'll answer to kindness, you'll find. So the next time you're buzzing a number or two, let that thought buzz around in your mind.

Simple Receiver Offers Clarity and Distance

HOOKUP DIAGRAM OF HAYNES CIRCUIT

BY ISRAEL KLEIN

N.E.A. Service Radio Editor
If, instead of long distance records, clarity and selectivity is sought with a simple receiver, the Haynes circuit can fill the bill.

It is nothing more than a simple, three-circuit regenerative tuner, but it is so constructed that there is a minimum of loss or interference and a maximum of volume and clearness from a single tube.

Two parts of this circuit are important—the inductance and the variable condenser. For the inductance, a Haynes 130-degree bank-wound variocoupler has been found most efficient. Enough windings should be taken off the rotor to leave only 35 turns there, while four taps are taken off the first eight turns of the aerial side of the stator coil, a tap at every second turn.

The condenser, also a Haynes, has 23 plates and a capacity of not more than .00022 mfd. But any good make of condenser with similar capacity should do. Care should be taken, however, that it is a low-loss condenser.

Other Parts

Outside of these most important parts, the set consists of the following regular instruments:

One 6-ohm rheostat.
One grid leak, 2 megohms, and condenser, .00025 mfd.
One tube socket.
One switch, four switch points and two steps.
One open circuit jack, or a closed circuit jack if an amplifier is added. Or, two phone binding posts.
Six other binding posts for aerial, ground and batteries.
A 7 by 16-inch panel, with corresponding cabinet.
Connecting bus wire.
Either a UV-200 or a WD-11 or WD-12 tube may be used.

How to Tune It

The operation is as simple as any other similar circuit. Put the switch knob on the point leading to the extreme end of the primary coil. Turn on the rheostat until a slight hiss is heard, then turn back until hiss disappears. With a dry battery tube, the filament should show a dull red glow.

With the tickler dial at zero, rotate the condenser until a station is heard. Then the tickler is turned to strengthen the signal. If the signal becomes weaker instead of stronger, reverse the tickler connections.
If some station happens to interfere, turn the switch lever to the second point and re-tune with condenser and tickler dial. But best reception will be obtained with the entire length of the primary coil.

RADIO CONCERT BY THE QUINBY COMPANY

The W. S. Quinby company of Boston will present for the benefit of the radio-listeners of this district, their second radio concert from station WNAO, (273 meters) the Shepard Stores, Boston, on Sunday evening, June 29, at 8.30 o'clock, daylight saving time.

The first concert presented by this company, on April 27, was very well received, throughout New England and many letters of commendation were received by them for their work in behalf of better broadcasts. The company's slogan is "You might as well have the best," and living up to this, the company has arranged a second program which brings together a group of artists of the first class.

The program follows:
"Overture William Tell" by Rossini, Played by The Vannini Symphony Ensemble.
"Prologue from I Pagliacci" by Leoncavallo, Sung by Mr. Ralph Talby, baritone.
"Prelude to Lohengrin" by Wagner, Played by The Vannini Symphony Ensemble.
"Aria Deb vleni, non Tardar" by Mozart, Sung by Miss Louise Badaracco, soprano.
Suite Espagnole, "La Feria," by La-come, a. Las Torres, b. La Raja c. La Zarzuela, Played by the Vannini Symphony Ensemble.
"Die Fiesante," from Faust, by Gounod, Sung by Mr. Ralph Talby, baritone.
"Allegretto for Strings Only," by Beethoven, Played by members of The Vannini Symphony Ensemble.
"Voi Lo Sapete O Mamma," from Cavalleria Rusticana by Mascagni, Sung by Miss Louise Badaracco, soprano.
"Hungarian Rhapsody No. 2" by Liszt, Played by The Vannini Symphony Ensemble.

SAMOA'S LISTEN IN
Natives of Samoa are preparing to listen in on speeches from the house of commons in London. They have already succeeded in receiving broadcast programs from New York over a distance of 7200 miles.

If a soft, bluish glow appears in the tubes the plate voltage is too high.

NOISES IN YOUR RECEIVER

Loose connections or badly soldered joints are the greatest causes of the exasperating noises you get in your phones.
If there is any corrosion in the joints, a scratchy noise results. If the prongs of the tubes do not fit properly, or they are corroded, it is another cause for scratchy noises.
Loose binding posts cause the same noise. Loose phone connections are another annoyance.
The remedy lies in tightening all binding posts and re-soldering all loose joints with the use of as little flux as possible.

MONOPOLY IS SOUGHT

They're trying it in Paraguay—a monopoly of radio sales for the next five years. Broadcasting is promised if the right is granted.

IN AFRICA AT LAST

South Africa finally is to get its own broadcasting station after a protest lodged by the city of Johannesburg. A private company is to get the license and broadcasting is promised soon after.

ARTISTS DRESS UP

Atmosphere will be maintained at future concerts broadcast from KDKA, Pittsburgh, by having the artists "appear" in costume. The concerts will be a series of popular melodies from the past.

RADIO DIVORCE SUIT

Mrs. Corn May White of Minneapolis has agreed to withdraw her suit for divorce when her husband consented to be limited to a one-tube receiving set and no profanity. White refused.

Radio is still unknown in Sicily. Jamaica prohibits radio transmission or reception.

Tubes work best when mounted upright. There are 17,300 licensed radio amateurs in this country.

Broadcasting stations in the United States number 584. Texas leads in the number of broadcasting stations with 42.

Every state in the union has one or more broadcasting stations. Radio committee at Ceylon has recommended government broadcasting of radio.

Tremont Baptist church, Boston is to broadcast under call letters WDRR on 255 meters.

Crystal set operating a loud speaker is said to have been invented in Europe. Nine microphones are installed in Calvary Baptist church, Pittsburgh, Pa.

WEAF, New York, will broadcast a course on the Old Testament every Sunday at 5.

Washington Senators Defeat Yanks and Hop From Third to First Place in Am. League

BASEBALL CAPITAL MOVES FROM HARLEM TO BANKS OF POTOMAC

First Time on Record That Washington Club Has Headed American League on June 25 or Later— Browns Take Twin Bill From Tigers—Red Sox Win

NEW YORK, June 25.—Washington, deprived of its politics by New York, retaliated with a brilliant coup which moved the baseball capital of the nation from the Harlem river to the banks of the Potomac.

The senators gained a full lap on the racing field of the American league by beating New York 4 to 3 in 10 innings yesterday and jumped from third place to first. This is the first time the Washington club has headed the American circuit on June 25 or later. The bewildered Yankees, elated three times within two days by the baseball politicians, managed to hold on to second as Detroit did a back slide from first to third by losing twice to the Browns, 5 to 3 and 5 to 1. Jacobson made two homers in the second game.

Boston, recent football contender for first place, saved its face by winning of falling into a tie for sixth by beating Philadelphia 4 to 1. The Red Sox hold a first division berth by one point over St. Louis, which with Sister back in the game, is only two games away from first and poised for a leap.

The mad Indians, whose successful scouting of New York, Boston, Washington and Detroit, scrambled by the league, was restrained by rain which kept them idle at Chicago.

Gotham's consolation in the sad situation lies in the Giants who won their 10th straight game by adding Dazzy Vance, premier hurler of the two leagues to their conquests and defeated Brooklyn, 6 to 3. The stride of the Giants took them another half game away from Chicago, which with St. Louis was not scheduled.

Brown's team now leads in the National by two and one-half games. Brooklyn holds third place by only two and one-half games over the long threatening Pirates, who beat Cincinnati 4 to 3, although Eppa Rixey did not allow a Corsair to reach first base until two were out in the eighth inning. Boston defeated Philadelphia, 4 to 2, as North defeated Carlson in a pitcher's battle.

CITY TWILIGHT LEAGUE AMERICANS TO THE FORE

GAME THIS EVENING AT WIMBLEDON, ENG.

The Pawtucket A. A. and the Belmont will come together in a City Twilight league game on the South common this evening. The Pawtucket, with an exceptionally strong lineup, are leading the league with four games won and none lost. The Belmonts will have something to talk about, as the Pawtucket appear to have the class in every respect. With "Chick" Tardif performing better than at any time in his career, Manager Tommy Flynn isn't worrying about opponents.

The Belmonts on the other hand are no slouches. They have been playing a sweet brand of ball all season and make every team work hard to land a verdict. Manager Johnny Bell is of the opinion that his team will be the first to spoil the record of the Pawtucket, and he intends to star right in this evening.

The City Twi schedule is being revised and will be ready for publication in the near future. The new schedule will go into effect on Monday, June 7, when four games will be played each week.

MANCHESTER TEAM DEFEAT SILESIA

At Manchester last evening, the Silesia mill team of North Chelmsford was defeated by Manchester, 8 to 7. The home team won in the eighth by pushing three runs across the platter. Manchester plays a return game with Silesia at North Chelmsford this evening.

LOWELL JUNIOR LEAGUE IS FORMED

A new league, which has been in the forming for some time past, has just received permission from the park commission to use the North common every Monday, Tuesday and Friday evenings for twilight games. The league is to be known as the Lowell Junior League and will have the following teams represented: Emeralds, St. Joseph Cadets, Victorians, Pawtucket Blues, Ironquels and P.A.C.

These teams represent about the best material in the city in the 12-20-year-old class and all the coming contests should prove to be very interesting for the fans of the North End who intend taking them in.

The league will play its opening game next Monday, St. Joseph's Cadets and the Victorians being the rivals in the initial contest.

Willis J. Pettit, well known local jeweler, has offered a silver loving cup to be awarded the winners of the league. Mr. Pettit will officially open the league next Monday evening at 6:15 when he will pitch the first ball of the contest.

Games scheduled for the rest of the week are: Pawtucket Blues and P.A.C. on Tuesday, and Emeralds and Ironquels on Wednesday. This last game has been brought forward from Friday on account of the holiday.

All managers of the Junior League are requested to meet on the North common at 7 o'clock tomorrow evening.

Scores in 6 innings. Hit by pitcher: By McDonald, (Deane and Judson). Passed ball: Sullivan 2. Umpires: Coughlin and Healey. Time: 2:15.

AL MELLO IN PARIS

Steamship America With 300 American Olympic Stars Arrives 'Over There'

CHERBOURG, June 25 (by the Associated Press).—The steamship America, bearing the United States Olympic team of more than 300 athletes, arrived today. The athletes, all in good condition, landed at 7:30 o'clock headed by Col. Robert M. Thomson, chairman of the American Olympic committee.

The crew of the America gave the team a rousing send-off as the tenders left the ship. The first demonstration from the French came as the athletes passed a harbor tug whose men went up a cheer, which was echoed by the invaders.

Crowds lined the wharf as the men landed, but the welcome was informal and mild. There were several American delegations present, including members of the American Olympic committee in Paris. Rear Admiral Philip Andrews welcomed the men on behalf of the American naval staff.

The Americans departed on two special trains amid enthusiasm shortly after 9 o'clock. They are due to arrive in Paris at 3:15 this afternoon.

Al Mello of Lowell, who holds the national amateur boxing championship at 147 pounds, is a member of the Olympic team which arrived in Paris today.

BILLERICA TOO MUCH FOR CHELMSFORD

BY JOE WILLIAMS
NEW YORK, June 25.—The strange and perplexing case of Mr. James Joseph Tunney, known professionally as Gene, is to be wheeled back into the operating room for further clinical experiments.

Mr. Tunney, professing to be the light heavyweight champion of America, has signed to exchange punches, as the saying goes, with Georges Carpentier, celebrated French fight racer, here next month.

Nobody seems to be able to state with any degree of positiveness whether Mr. Tunney, a native product of the A. E. F., is a first-class fighting unit or not.

We discussed his case with Martin Burke, champion heavyweight of the south, some days ago. Burke was brief and to the point.

"I think he's an awful tomato," he said.

GIRL BOWLER IN STAR ROLE

Bill Moylan, ex-high school second sacker, cracked out four singles in four trips to the plate for the Princeton A. A. in its Lowell Twilight league game on the South common last evening, and helped the Centralville aggregation to defeat Hogan's Centrals by a score of 3 to 0. Gus McKenzie twirled a brilliant brand of ball for the winners, letting the Centrals off with five outs.

Bill Conlon assumed the pitching responsibilities for the losers. Although nicked for only six hits, the Centrals were giving their men over on the paths. The Princetonians scored two of their runs in the fifth inning and one in the seventh. In the fifth, Maylan scratched one down the first base sector in the direction of right field. He went to second on the throw in and scored on Jimmy Cawley's single. The next two runs from DeRoehn in center field and the Princeton first sacker made home in safety.

The final tally came in the Princetonians' last trip to bat. Burns batted out four bad ones and was passed. He proceeded to second on McKenzie's sacrifice, and moved along on a sacrifice fly by Jimmy Burns. Consecutive clout, Burns registered.

Goose-eggs were accredited to the Centrals in each of the seven innings. The Princetonians were giving their pitcher air-tight support, but one excusable miscue being recorded. The only time the Centrals really threat-

COMBINATIONS
Colored lane frocks are frequently made up over a foundation of another color. Madonna blue over pink satin and yellow over orchid are two very popular combinations.

NARROW BELTS
Very narrow belts of red leather are worn with white sport frocks, and frequently the same sort of a band is worn about the hat crown.

Bout With Carpentier at Least Will Give Fans Line on Real Ability of Gene Tunney

With the exception of the two Greb bouts, Tunney hasn't faced a really high grade battler. In the first Greb bout, Tunney was beaten. In the second he was victorious. In neither did he look the part of a sensation.

Gibson, his manager, tells you Tunney is a greatly improved fighter and predicts he will beat Carpentier worse than Gibbons did at Michigan City.

"I brought Tunney along slowly," says Gibson, "just as I brought Benny Leonard along by easy stages. Tunney didn't look any worse in his final days than Benny did. Finally Benny reached his real form and won the world's lightweight title before reaching his top-most ability. Today he is really a great fighter."

Tommy Gibbons is another fighting gentleman who can hardly give a straight face when Tunney's name is mentioned.

"I'll say this for him, though, he uses beautiful English," Gibbons, too, may be moderately prejudiced. The St. Paul shamrock has been trying, unsuccessfully, for several seasons to get a shot at Tunney.

Much of the skepticism regarding Tunney's ability grew out of the extreme caution with which his manager, the shrewd Billy Gibson, engineered his matches. If the boys looked too tough, Mr. Tunney was kept far away from them.

Mr. Gibson is, of course, not unlike the common run of fight managers, and one should not take his enthusiasm too seriously.

Tunney is a pretty fair fighter, but no world beater. He is fast and clever and these qualities ought to win for him over the deceptively Carpentier.

Tunney, however, has never been a great aggressive fighter. Taking chances is not his specialty. Carpentier can still bring a fairly hard straight right. Tunney may decide that discretion is eminently the better part of valor, and go into a shell.

If he does it will be a terrible fight to watch, for the French man proved in his marathon with Gibbons that he can retreat with the worst of them.

A. E. HOWARD FAVORED TO WIN CITY GOLF CHAMPIONSHIP

Shoots a Brilliant and Record-Breaking 69 at Mt. Pleasant and Has 12-Stroke Lead Over the Field—Third and Final Round at Vesper Club Next Tuesday

Unless Arnold E. Howard breaks a log he ought to walk away with the 1924 city golf championship when the final round is played at the Vesper Country club next Tuesday.

Last night after the second round had been completed at Mt. Pleasant he was sitting pretty with a clear 12-stroke lead over the man in second position, procured mainly by a sensational and record-breaking round of 69 over the ever-Highlands links yesterday afternoon. As was said in this paper yesterday, pars and birdies flock to Howard's clubs at Mt. Pleasant, and his masher and approach-iron were like fiery wands as he blinding while he dashed around in 34 and 35 strokes for a less-than-70 total. Alex Ellis, former pro at Mt. Pleasant, once played a practice round in 69 but never has been accomplished in competition, so that the honor is Howard's.

Charlie Grassie, by coming through with 76 yesterday, moved into second place in the standing and Howard Morton's well played 77 put him in third position, but both are trailing Howard by so many strokes that it will take superhuman golf to pull him from the throne at Vesper. That Arnold will not go so well over the longer and more difficult Vesper course, is admitted, but he can afford to give away a stroke or two and still breeze into the possession of this cup. A 12-stroke advantage in this stage of the game is like getting a check from the fond parents when the last thin dime is tucked away in the corner of the trousers' pocket. He should take the cup like Grant took Richmond.

Yesterday's round produced better golf on the average than was shown at Longmeadow on the opening day a week ago, which also was not unexpected, for it must be said that there is nothing very taxing or formidable about the Mt. Pleasant course. There is only one hole, the eighth, that cannot be traversed without exertion in a drive and an iron.

The boys who can stand up and slug 'em will be the ones to watch at Vesper next Tuesday, where the distances from tee to cup are long in many instances and where a flubbed shot exacts severe penalty. But as we have said before, Howard should carry most of the bets.

Yesterday's score, the first round scores and totals to date follow:

Cobb's Discard Sensation in American Association

Ty Cobb has planted a genuine star in the American Association. Some day—perhaps in the near future—the Georgia Peach will bring the youngster back from St. Paul and have him take Lou Blue's place at first base for the Tygers. We refer to Johnny Neun, the sensation of the association this year. He is the most talked of individual in the double A. loop. Cobb loaned Neun to St. Paul this spring. All he has done for the Apostles thus far is to lead the league in batting, and in base stealing. He has a record of more than 20 pilfered sacks to date. At this rate, he promises to wind up the season with something like 100 stolen bases.

FIRPO EXPECTS TO SAIL FOR U. S. JULY 5

BUENOS AIRES, June 25.—Luis Firpo, Argentine heavyweight, announced today that he was sailing for New York for a fight with Harry Wills. He said he had agreed to fight Wills on August 30 in New York or vicinity, and expected to sail for the United States on July 5.

Firpo declared he was sincere when he announced his intention to retire from the ring, but that he had been greatly impressed by Rickard's promise of fair treatment and the persuasive arguments of Juan Flores, the promoter's agent here.

Women at the Convention

MRS. ELIZABETH MARBURY

MRS. CONDE NAST

BY HORTENSE SAUNDERS,
N.E.A. Service Writer

NEW YORK, June 25.—Women visitors at the democratic convention will not be dependent on theatres, cafes or other places of entertainment for hospitality unless they prefer to be.

For the women's committee of nine, of which Miss Elizabeth Marbury is the head, and who are in charge of arrangements for entertaining, want to show the home side.

The committee includes some of the most famous hostesses of our country, and from their mansions and clubs these women intend to dispense such hospitality as is quite beyond the reach of the more spender.

Among the hostesses are Mrs. Joseph E. Willard, whose husband was ambassador to Spain; Mrs. John W. Davis, whose husband was ambassador to the court of St. James, and Mrs. James Erskine Neal, whose husband was United States consul at Liverpool and London.

Prominent Entertainers

Others who will take a prominent part in entertaining the visitors include Mrs. David F. Houston, whose husband was secretary of the treasury and agriculture, Mrs. Norman H. Davis, Miss Margaret Wilson and Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt.

Mrs. Martin Vogel has arranged that many of the private art collections of New York, as well as the public ones, shall be open to visitors and trips to museums and other places of interest are planned for as many as care to take advantage of them.

A list of all interesting and out of the way restaurants and places of amusement has been compiled by Mrs. Conde Nast.

Party Lines Dissolved

An innovation is the appointment of Dr. Laura Riegelman of the city department of health as chairman of a first aid physicians' and nurses' committee to care for any woman who may fall ill while at the convention.

Many organizations, local, state and national, are planning social entertainments for visiting women, political lines dissolving when it comes to a matter of entertaining friends from "back home."

LOWELL WOMEN'S CLUB

Interesting Talk on State Institutions by Member of Visiting Staff

The final meeting of the Business and Professional Women's club of Lowell was held last evening in the Kimball school with President Mrs. Rose Jordan Hartford in the chair.

Miss Eleanor Rivet, recording secretary, read the minutes of the last meeting. Miss Mabelle Whitlock, treasurer, read her report which showed a balance on hand of $60.35 with a total of 105 paid members and 12 possibilities.

Mrs. Hartford then reviewed the activities of the club since its organization showing that much progress had been made. She told of a grandmothers' club in New York whose members are all over 70 years of age and whose president is 90 years old.

In speaking of the work of this club, Mrs. Hartford stated that the local women's club had done its work well. She congratulated the members and thanked them for co-operation, urging them to continue in this spirit that the club might flourish in its undertaking.

The president then introduced the speaker of the evening, Miss Marion Wilson, of the visiting staff of the state parole department.

Miss Wilson gave a most instructive and entertaining talk on the work of the state institutions, Lynx the Shirlings and Lancaster, dwelling at length upon the work at the latter institution. She described the work of the girls attending Lancaster and illustrating her talk she displayed numerous articles of handcraft, including basketry, embroidery, crocheting, sewing and woodwork, done by the girls, all under the age of 20 years.

Miss Wilson said in part: "I do not want anyone to lose faith in these girls. I know these girls and I know what there is in them. They are not so stupid as they are made out to be. They can adjust themselves in the world. I have seen many cases when these girls have made good. The right sort of training is lacking in the homes of these girls. That is the cause for their downfall. But deep down under their crudeness and vulgarity, they are good. They want to make good but they do not know how to break through and come out. They lack the moral courage to start off again. All have qualities which through kindness and patience can be found and fanned into a glowing flame."

Miss Wilson then gave interesting instances of girls, some who have made good and others who have proved utterly hopeless. The latter, however, being very few.

In speaking of the parole system, Miss Wilson said there was no grouping or ordering system. Each girl in parole is treated individually and the girl goes along on her own merits.

She said she had heard the three "T's"—Think things through. I try to make them understand that every day is a new beginning and that by forgetting the past and looking to the present that they will be able to work themselves up and out into the world. Twenty-six honorable discharges have been allowed. For the granting of the honorable discharge, however, the girls must be permanently reformed. This is the one which permits them to receive a discharge.

"Some seem to think that as soon as the girls are paroled they leave our care. That is not so; they are our wards, married or single, until the age of 21. We have at present 28 married girls."

In closing, Miss Wilson told of three cases which she is handling, cases of girls who after leaving broken-down homes went to the institution and are now bright on the mountain of success in the business world.

At the conclusion of her talk Miss Wilson was accorded a rising vote of thanks. The meeting adjourned for the summer until the call of the chair in September.

charge of the reception arrangements and made the genial host as of yore. Members of the hospital faculty and attendants aided measurably in the reception plans for the returning members of the profession.

This is the 70th year of the establishment of Tewksbury state infirmary. The institution's record down all the years, comprising nearly three-quarters of a century, is unsurpassed in the nation. Today, at the rally of members of the profession upon whom humanity chiefly depends in time of sickness and other human ills, the long and distinguished history of the Tewksbury infirmary was reviewed in comforting retrospect. Many medicines intimately familiar with the institution testified to the inestimable value of the work carried on there.

The meeting today called for formal inspections of all the infirmary hospital wards between 12 m. and 2 p. m. Luncheon was served to the medical guests and visitors in the hospital dining hall immediately afterward. In business session, there was reading of reports covering hospital work performed during the past year, also resume of previous meetings similar to the one conducted today.

Much of the material offered at the business meeting and survey, related to lifesaving efforts conducted unceasingly at the Tewksbury infirmary, in which many physicians and surgeons present at today's reunion have taken highly efficacious parts.

Supl. Nichols acted the genial, painstaking host on the tour of the infirmary wards, explaining the work being done in each ward and responding to questions. New programs have been installed in some hospital departments, as outlined in The Sun's recent survey of the modern departures that have taken place in the great Tewksbury lifesaving institution within the past 18 months.

Much of the discussion today among the guests of Supt. Nichols referred in highest terms of commendation to the great advance that the Tewksbury hospital has made in every department during the past half century, and more particularly from the day when the present leader, Supt. Nichols, took up the reins. His industry and enthusiasm, and his close attention to all hospital needs has been duly attested by state authorities from governors down to expert hospital supervisors.

The bridesmaid wore American beauty changeable taffeta with hat to match and carried red peonies. The bride's father performed the ceremony at 8 o'clock, which was followed immediately by a reception in the church parish house. The bride was attended by her sister, Miss Helen Tuthill, as maid of honor and by the Misses Hazel and Elizabeth Tuthill. Miss Elizabeth Hoffmeister and Miss Margaret Olney as bridesmaids. ## BIG DECREASE IN PASSENGER REVENUE

The decrease in passenger revenue on the local division of the street railway company has reached alarming proportions within the last few days and company officials cannot foresee any improvement until the fall.

Passenger revenue for the first 22 days of June this year, as compared with a like period last year, decreased $15,100. For the first 15 days of this month the decrease was $11,000, making the average decrease for eight days ending the 23rd approximately $500.

With the closing of the public schools today, the company will lose $300 revenue daily, that amount representing fares paid daily by pupils on their way to and from school. It is hoped, however, that this decrease will be made up by the increase of fares on the lines running to summer amusement places.

The street railway service has been cut as much as possible without necessitating a rearrangement of schedules, said Manager McCormick this morning, and the company has no desire at the present time to revamp its operating schedule.

Owing to the closing of the Billerica schools, a slight rearrangement of schedules was necessary and operators of the local division are today bidding on runs for the remainder of the summer from the rearranged schedule.

Jack Daw's Adventures. Chapter 4

Jack immediately grabbed Flip and held him while the cook climbed down off the table. When the dog saw that the cook was friendly he slunk down on the floor. Then Jack asked if there was a piece of meat that he could give Flip. And shortly the cook brought some meat forth.

"In understand you are going to make this next sailing trip with us," said the cook to Jack. "You bet I am," replied the little adventurer. "Well," continued the cook, "we might as well get acquainted. My name is Paddy." And, with that, he and Jack shook hands.

"Are you hungry?" asked Paddy. "Well," replied Jack, "I might eat a sandwich, if you've got one." But before the sandwich was prepared Flip suddenly jumped up and darted through the kitchen door, close on the heels of a black cat that had suddenly appeared. (Continued.)

ADVENTURES OF THE TWINS

by Olive Roberts Barton

"Tira loo, tira loo, tira loo!" called Johnny Jump up softly. "Wake up, Nancy and Nick, and come and get your magic shoes. We are going on another adventure."

"Where to?" asked Nick excitedly, hopping out of bed and starting to put on his clothes.

"You'll find out, you'll find out, you'll find out!" sang Johnny Jump up, dancing about on the window-sill in the moonlight.

Nancy was dressed first and put on the tiny shoes the fairy handed to her. But Nick was only a second behind her, so eager was he to be off.

And oh, how tiny they became the instant the magic shoes touched their feet. So little that a lightning bug passing by called out, "Good evening, beetles, how did you get away up here?"

One, two, three, four, five! In just as long a time as it takes to count that many, they were down the wall and standing in the magic garden where the stiff yellow daffodils stood like fairy lamp-posts, and the blue bells were tinkling.

"Come with me," cried Johnny Jump up.

Up, and bouncing over to a cherry tree covered with blossoms, he began to climb toward the branches.

Up went the Twins after him. And there by the light of the moon they could see a tiny Japanese maiden no bigger than a hummingbird.

She had on a little straight dress of bright silk, embroidered in colored flowers, and a wide sash that tied in a big bow behind. Her black hair was pulled up high on her head and stuck full of little fans and she carried a paper parasol.

"Oh, are you a fairy?" cried Nancy.

"Yes," nodded the tiny maiden. "A Japanese fairy from far Japan. It is a lovely place on the other side of the world and that is where Johnny Jump up is going to take you tonight. I brought three tickets for you."

"All right, if you say so," said Johnny Jump up, turning a somersault. "Have you seen the timemouse anywhere? We can't go unless he takes us."

"Oh, I'm here," called a sleepy voice. "I've been waiting ever since the sun went down. Every other self-respecting bird was in bed hours ago. All I got was forty winks and I never can get rested under fifty."

"You can sleep when you get back, lazybones," chirped Johnny Jump up merrily. "Hop on, Nancy! Hop on, Nick!" And giving a little jump, the fairy man hopped on, too.

Away flew the timemouse and they all

EXPLOSION ON OIL SHIP

200-Gallon Case of Gasoline Burst Into Flames—Series of Explosions Followed

Blazing Ship Rushed From Brooklyn Wharf and Beached—Loss $300,000

NEW YORK, June 25.—Authorities today continued their investigations of the explosion aboard the Standard Oil Co. freighter Egrement Castle, at a Brooklyn wharf yesterday, in which five men were reported missing and six others were perhaps fatally injured. The missing men, one of whom was Charles Keller, an inspector for the Standard Oil Co., are thought to have been burned to death or drowned in the flooded hold of the ship.

The origin of the explosion on the ship, which was loaded with 250,000 gallons of naphtha, kerosene and gasoline bound for the Far East, is still a mystery. A 200 gallon case of gasoline, which was being slung down a lighter into an aft hold, burst with a sharp flash. This was followed by a series of minor explosions in the hold, culminating in a thunderous roar. The last blast shot several longshoremen from the hold to the deck, 35 feet above. Slings were flung down the hatchway to the men below, and one by one they were hauled up, bleeding from their wounds.

Ambulances and police reserves were summoned and at the same time a fire alarm was sounded. After aid had been given to the injured, six tugs rushed to the scene and towed the Egrement Castle, which was menacing shipping, from the wharf.

LIGHT WINES AND BEER

Favored in Place of Present
Orgy of Health-Wrecking
Dissipation Among Youth

Dr. Hollender Says Poisonous Beverages Causing Increase in Hay Fever

CHICAGO, June 25.—It would be far better to restore light wines and beers than to "permit the present orgy of health-wrecking dissipation among the young men and women," Dr. Abraham R. Hollender, Chicago, told the 90th annual convention of the American Institute of Homeopathy today.

Widespread indulgence and poisonous beverages is undermining the health of the younger generation and is causing an alarming increase in hay fever, he said.

Election of officers is on today's program.

SHENANDOAH RETURNS FROM TEST FLIGHT

LAKEHURST, N. J., June 25.—The Shenandoah giant dirigible of the navy was returned to her hangar this morning at 4.45 daylight saving time after a test flight of nine hours and 15 minutes over New York city and the New Jersey coast between Barnegat and Sandy Hook.

The trip which was undertaken to test engine repairs made since the Albany flight was declared successful. Commander Landsdowne announced that the craft would make her next flight Saturday when she is to fly over Miller field, during aerial maneuvers by the New York National Guard.

Fields of lava, "sputter" cones, volcanic craters, strange caves and natural bridges have been discovered in the southeastern part of Idaho.

Auction Sale of Midway Lots

$30 and $40 respectively for ten-foot-square plots.
Those paying premiums for priority in the choice of locations paid in addition the regular bid price for the lots. Thus the first bidder, after paying $86 for choice took three lots at $40 each, paying in all $128 for his choice of any three lots in the big park. There were the usual number of non-resident bidders and several local residents in the bidding.

John W. Kernan, superintendent of parks, had the chart of lots on display. Assisted by James P. Linton, temporarily added as an additional clerk to the park department, he took in the cash while Miss Agnes Hennessey, department clerk, made out the receipts. Dan Lane, veteran city hall policeman, stood guard over the waste basket into which the filthy hucra was tossed while two other uniformed members of the city's staff, willing in the sultry heat with their stiff, starched collars turning into limp rags, kept one eye on the crowd and the other on Dan and the boodle.

In all, about sixty lots went this forenoon. The remainder, about 50 or 100, will come on sale in the office of the park department at the established rates. Supt. Kernan said that the high bid last year was $28, or $28 less than the offer of this year. Mr. Maguinness, the successful bidder, was in the running from the start. When the auctioneer asked members of the crowd to buy a dinner for all hands around.

There were a number of women in attendance and that there must be money in the midway game was attested by the display of diamonds with which many were modestly bedecked. Everyone had a comfortable chair and a person not in the know might, save for the volferousness of some of the cravats displayed, think that a sale of antiques was in progress in some art gallery.

The auction started shortly after 10 o'clock and by 11 o'clock it was all over but the making out of receipts. Many waited until the sale ended to get at par value what choice lots were left. At 4 o'clock a stream of prospective buyers at the park board office offered silent and eloquent testimony to buy a dinner for all hands around.

Delegates Late in Arriving
Nobody seemed to be in a hurry in getting down for today's session. Ten minutes before the session was scheduled to begin, most of the boxes for which contributors to the convention fund had paid high prices were empty and there were whole solid banks of empty seats in the other reserved sections.

Among the early arrivals was Permanent Chairman Walsh, who came in morning dress, looking very hot and uncomfortable but very formal. The photographers pounced upon him and put him through a score of poses. The band leader, evidently recalling Theodore Roosevelt's admonition that a convention needs first to be entertained, got into action up in the little loft and crashed out some overtures interspersed with some popular novelties.

When Temporary Chairman Harrison began pounding for order out on the end of the speaker's stand, he stood up in a little contrivance resembling a stanchion in a cowpen. An arrangement put there to keep the speakers in front of the microphone so that the listening millions out on the air might not be disappointed.

getting settled. The word was passed to the band to stop, despite the call for "East Side, West Side," and when Chairman Walsh began whacking for order, he did it so vigorously that the head flew off the gavel, and landed in a mass of people on the floor in front of the speaker's stand. It missed all the heads.

During the interval some of the old line party leaders went up on the platform and did a little handshaking with the convention managers.

Finally Chairman Walsh called the convention to order and introduced Police Commissioner Enright to make an announcement. He announced that after the session buses would be provided to carry delegates and their families to Graystone-on-the-Hudson the former home of Samuel J. Tilden.

When Police Commissioner Enright had finished, the chair recognized Senator Glass of Virginia, who has a healthy presidential boom of his own. The band swung into "Carry Me Back to Old Virginia." There was a brief demonstration of cheers and handclapping, while Senator Glass stood, smiling, at the speaker's desk waiting for the band to finish and exchanging greetings with friends on the floor below. He introduced the formal resolution providing for the organization of the national committee after the convention adjourns.

The resolution was adopted and President Woodward of the National League of Democratic Clubs was authorized to make an announcement.
